“the hive is alive”

1985 Apiary
Volume 1
Carver High School
3545 Carver Road
Winston-Salem, North Carolina

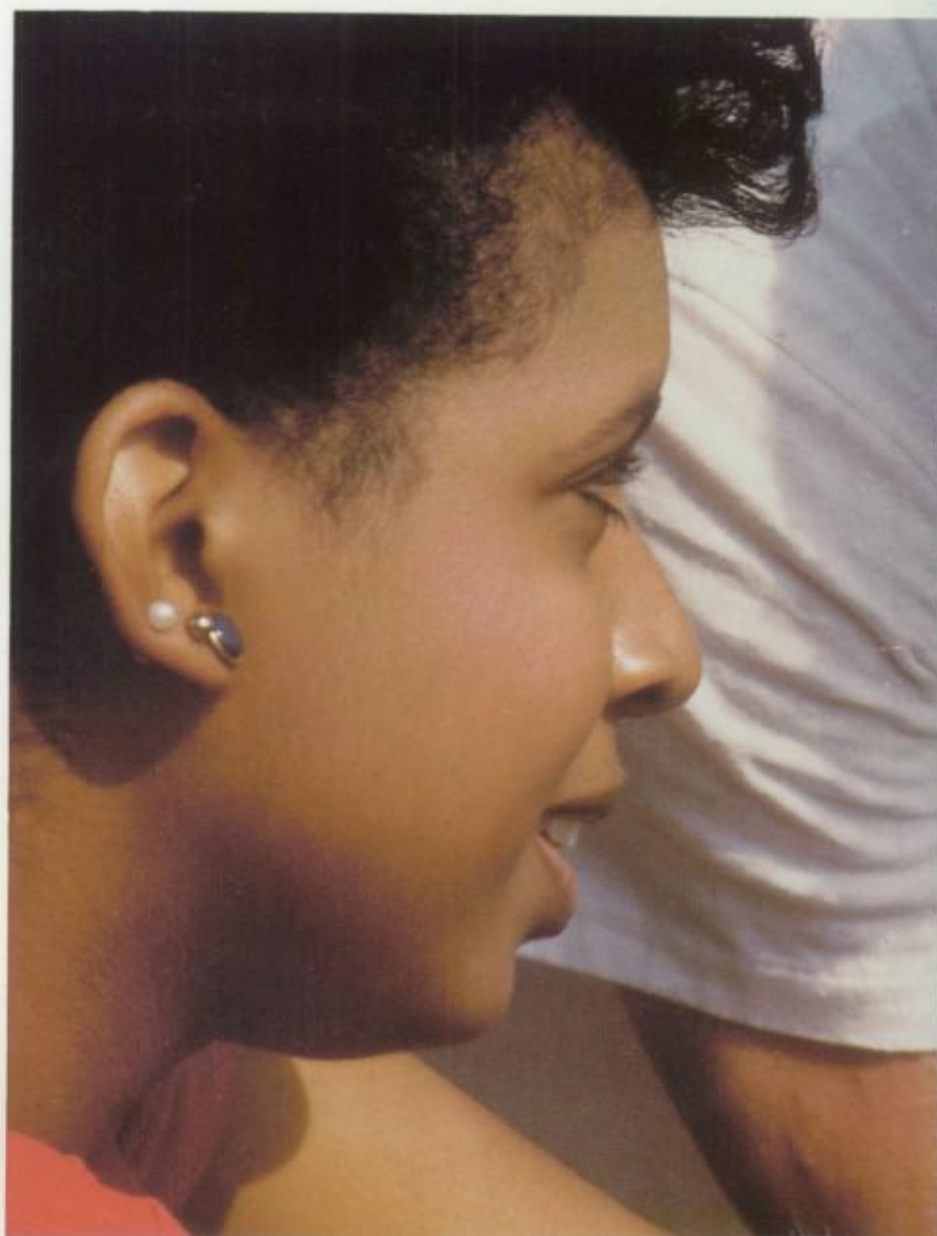

JUST LOOK AT US NOW!

This has been a year of changes throughout our school system but especially in the hallowed halls of CHS. We built a new parking lot, a new library and offices, and revamped our playing fields. There are new names and new faces all around us.

But physical changes were only a small part of the "New Carver High". Our greatest changes could not be seen with any eye. We have a new spirit, a new excitement, a new pride.

This is a year with a different feeling — no one can describe it but we all feel it. We have a new awareness of ourselves and a new pride in our school, a pride that will continue to grow and flourish because we are alive.

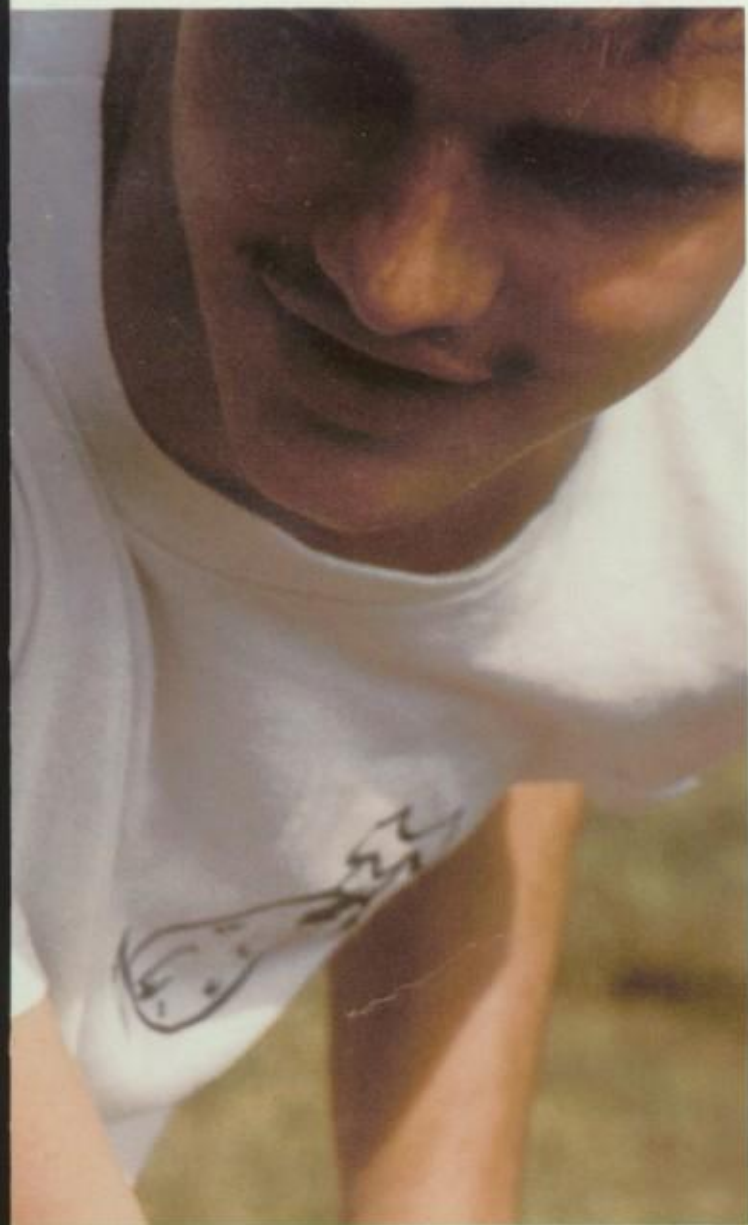

This is a new era for the Yellow Jackets. It is an era of emotion, passion, celebration, achievement and growth. It is a time we will never forget. No one can doubt that the hive is alive!

School spirit is overflowing in Amanda Williams in the final moments of the band's performance.

Kelly Sharp catches up on the noon gossip with a friend.

On a warm sunny day Juanka Jones and Greg Whittington talk about the changes taking place here.

Friendships made here may endure throughout the years. Angie Banks and Shawn Alexander share a bright moment on the day student pictures are made.

Before the game, Carol Fulton has a friendly laugh with some friends.

Radiating pride, Judy Roberts is enthralled in her part of the band's performance.

With lots of enthusiasm, Leslie Staten and Jenee Cross support the home team.

Georgi Watson is ready for a long awaited wild and crazy weekend.

student life

After a relaxing lunch, Abrena Mitchell basks in the sun before returning to school.

A Passion For Living Is The Sign Of Our Times

We are a hive that is truly alive, for passions bring us joy and fun. Passions that reflect our moods and personalities are never held back here. Many of our passions are fads that don't remain long, but while here, make an everlasting impression.

We experience an ever-growing desire to fulfill our own lives, live up to challenges, and to pursue our fantasies and innumerable passions.

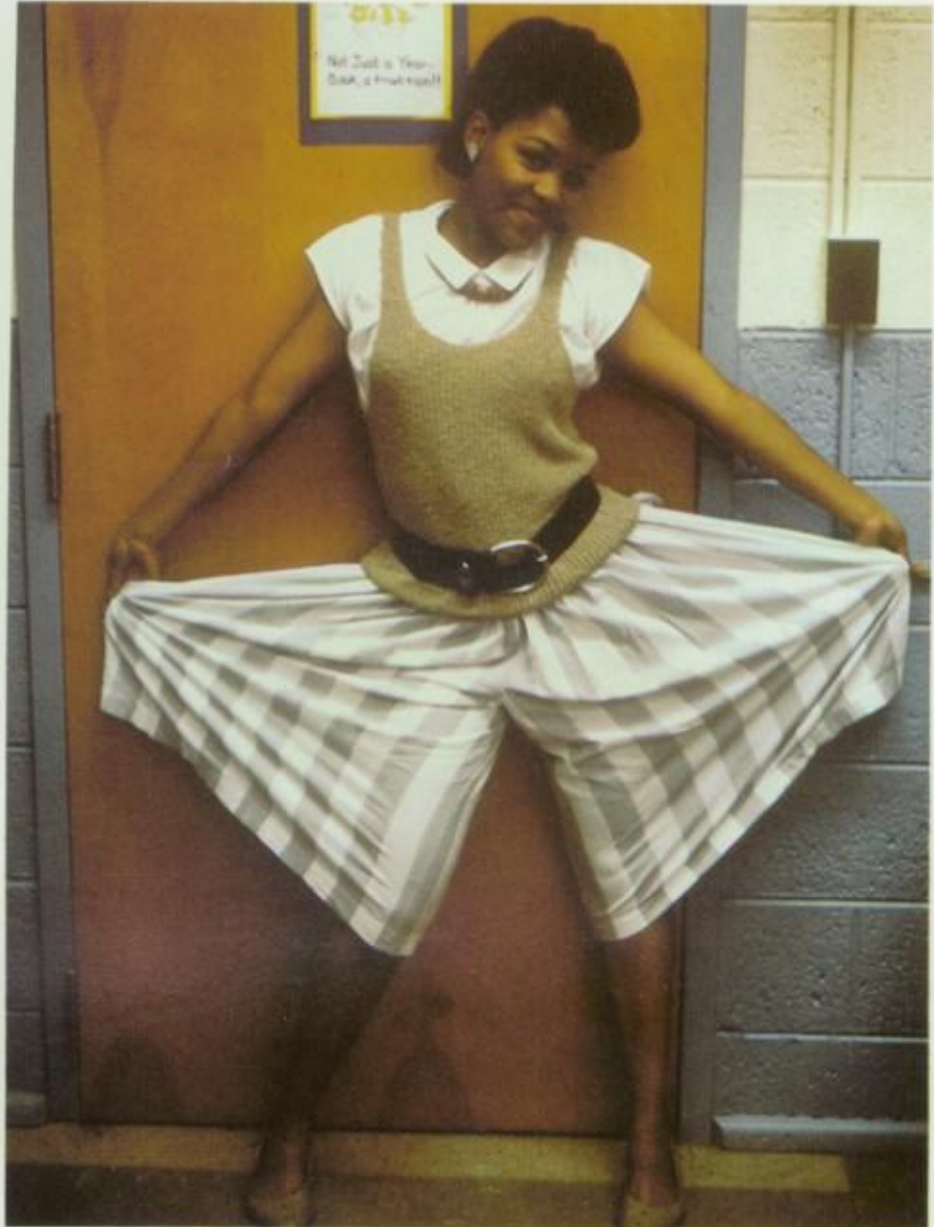

Carver Yellow Jackets gives a new meaning to "Society Hill" with the Demons humiliating loss to Carver.

A Duran Duran fan, Apryle Chambers collects her books for her next class.

Veronica Phelps shows her spirit for fashion.

Conversation is as important as the lunch to Sherry Cline and her friends.

Nor winning or losing matters to Lori Usher, as Jenée Cross gives a helping hand. School spirit is what matters.

Dannelle Fox, J.J. Jacobs, and Leslie Stat-en walk up the bleachers after a trying gym workout.

Sabrina Scales registers Chandra Moore, Sherry Williams and Lisa Tilley for the school wide mock election on October 30, 1984, as inquisitive Paul Hyatt looks on.

And the beat goes on as Marshall Brady, Pamela Foster, Shaun Starnes, Kelia Gray and Angela Peterson march off the field at the end of a halftime performance.

With eyes intensively focused on the football, Faye Hairston and Catrice Russell await another important touchdown.

Faces In The Crowd

As there are grains of sand on the beach, so there are faces in the crowd. Many of them you see every day, recognizing but not knowing them.

Carver has a variety of zest and flavor. Friendship, caring and understanding are a few of our main ingredients. Along with the different faces, we also get different personalities.

The way a person truly feels can not better be explained, than by the expression on his face. From the smiling faces of happiness and joy, to the frowning faces of disappointment and grief, our faces are a kaleidoscope of emotion.

John-Troy Witherspoon and Georgi Watson are "behind the fence" spectators at a Carver sports event.

Mrs. Harper's second period English class pauses for a group portrait on the Wake Forest library steps.

Robert Roane, Carlos Ashby, Mike May, Ricky Stucky, John Timmons, Chris Breazeale, Derick Debnam and Darryl Young revel in their latest victory.

Filling Every Moment To The Fullest

Candy Dixon awaits a serve from her teammate.

National defense is assured as the JROTC marches triumphantly in the Winston-Salem State University homecoming parade.

When our high school days are but a memory, what about these days will stand out in our minds? Certainly, we'll always remember the education we gained here. But we will also never forget all the extra curricular activities that helped bring the hive alive for us all.

Anthony Joyner and Sterling Samuels await their turn to go out on the field and do their best.

At the end of a tiring practice session, the letter girls, Temple Gray, Tiffany Carpenter, Sonya Powers, Ericka Johnson, and Renee Williams perfect their routine.

The political race is on for Nancy Brooks as she continues her quest for the office of Student Council Treasurer.

Angie Peterson, a beauty contest participant, displays her trophies won in the Miss America Coed State finals.

The highlights of halftime in our 42 to 6 victory over East Forsyth included the high kicks of the Sweet Stingers, led by Lori Johnson and Debbie Jones.

Portraits

A portrait is what we paint, with the brushes of time
... Our minds are the canvases.

We grow more each year. Each year we change. We are the future.

This school is where we begin, where we begin to paint ...

Randy Cox

Sterling Samuels crams just before a major test in history class.

Keeci Tobias is full of beauty, charm, and personality.

Robert Bain entertains the crowd on the bus.

A difficult chemistry assignment is successful when working with a friend. Kashemi Rorie and Melanie Agnew put their heads together to heat calcium oxide.

A portrait is worth one thousand words but a portrait of a Carver student says even more. Whether the portrait is of students entertaining themselves before the dismissal bell or students hard at work, the picture shows the students here have their own unique style. As we grow we change, and portraits capture that change, and for just one moment, they stop the motion. We do not have the power to look into the future, but portraits gives us a change to look back into the past.

Angela Bostic

Henry Tompkins puts the final touches on his art project.

Football games, club activities, part time jobs, research in the library, Friday night fever, and pep rallies fill the hearts and minds of all of us. But somehow, whenever we are tempted to forget our classroom activities, a term paper, algebra test, or chemistry assignment brings us back to the real world.

Robin Adams is absorbed in the task at hand.

To Achieve Is Our Purpose, Success Is Our Goal

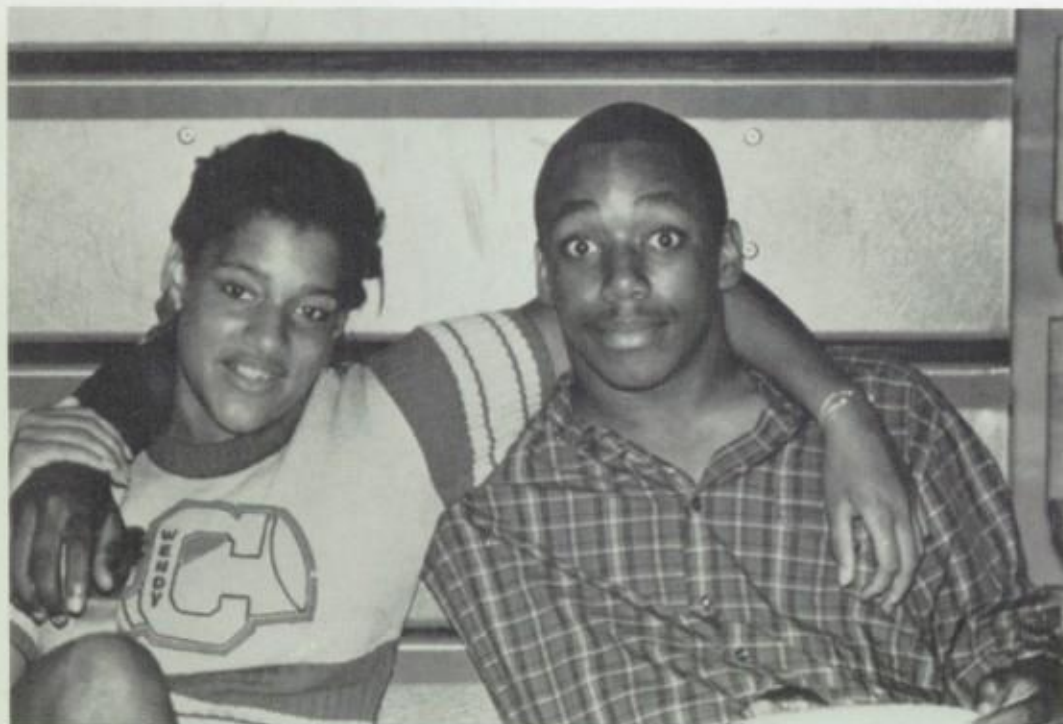

Michael Watkins creates a future masterpiece in Mr. Elliott's art class.

Robin Grigg learns the hunt-and-peck technique in Mrs. McNeal's typing class.

Taking a step into the computer age is Sharon Hargro, aided by Miss Fishburn.

Mike May and Angie Peddycord have no problems showing their feelings of friendship for each other.

Chris Hopkins gets an eye-opening boost of cheer from the energetic Wendy Hanes.

Chris Breazeale and Gina Collins enjoys a friendly match of peek-a-boo as Pam Brown referees.

Friendships

You have the shoulders on which I can cry and the mind, and ears on which I rely.
You always give me your strength,
you go to any measure or any length.
You can touch my depression,
I can tell you any confession.
A helpful hand you will always lend,
you are the person I call my best friend.
Randy Cox

Jackie Jones and Tamala Jones exchange friendly hugs.

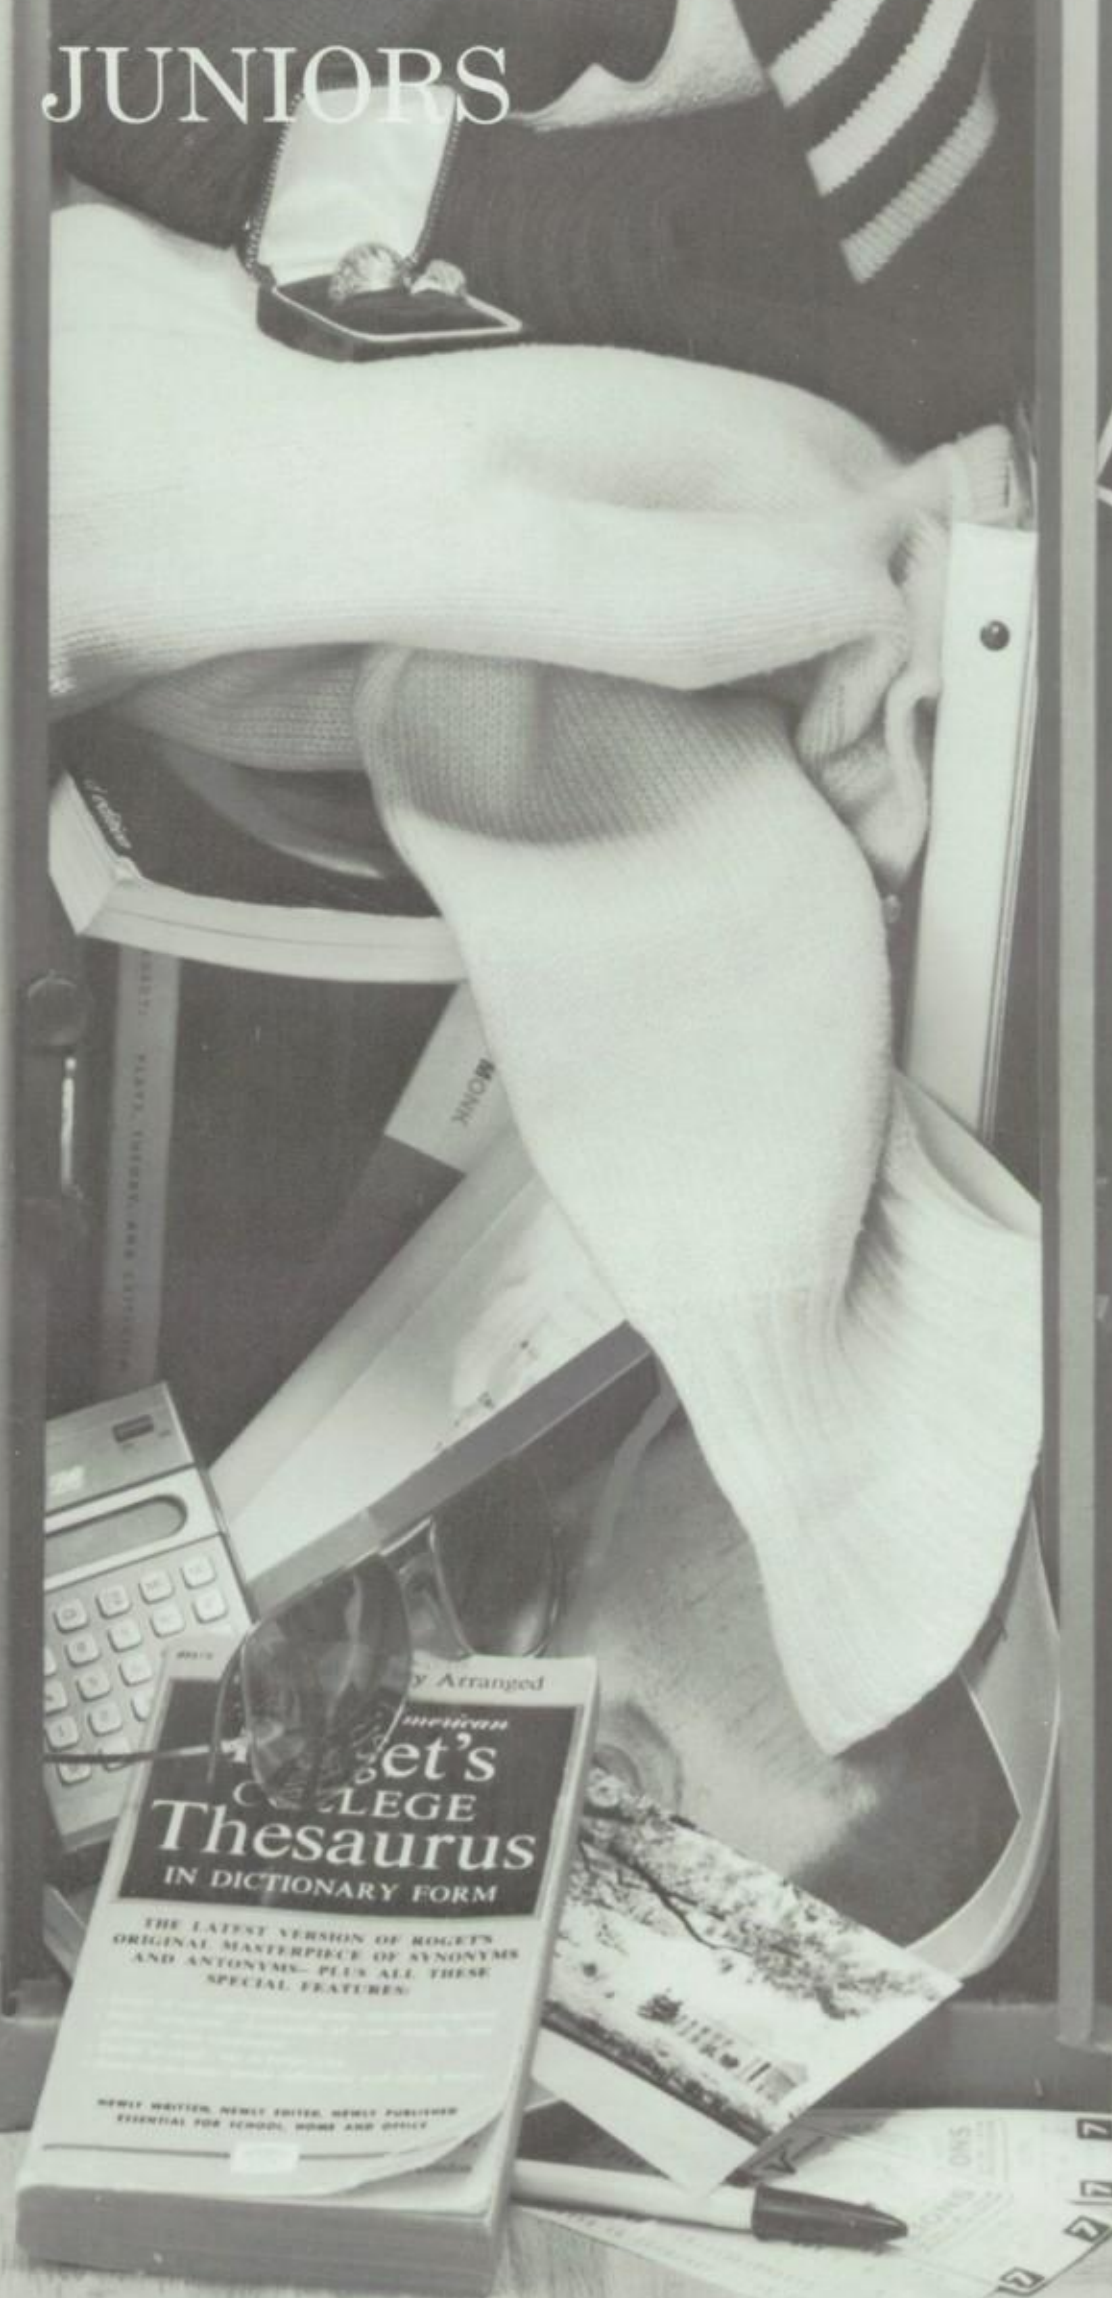

Curtis Turner, John-Troy Witherspoon, and Pam Rice enjoy a few minutes in the sun.

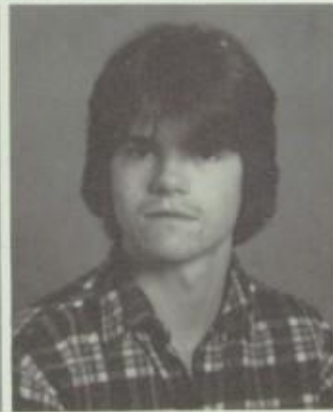

After testing in the gym, students enjoyed a few free minutes of conversation and friendship on the bleachers.

Slurping the last sip of shake from the bottom of her McDonald's Christmas cup, marks the end of lunch for Sabrina Boyd.

The Carver lunch program has ALOT to offer John Troy Witherspoon.

Carver students enjoy a refreshing break from their classes to eat in the school cafeteria.

There are many students at Carver who enjoy a good lunch. Only juniors are allowed to leave campus for lunch. Most juniors go to McDonalds, Burger King, Bo-jangles, and Hardees for lunch, although some do stay at Carver and enjoy dining in the school cafeteria.

Freshmen and sophomores stay at school and enjoy a hot lunch or the salad bar. After lunch they may go outside to the courtyard for some fresh air before going back to class.

Mrs. Rawl's homeroom had the highest candy sales and were treated to lunch at Pizza Hut, where everyone ate their fill, led by their able leader.

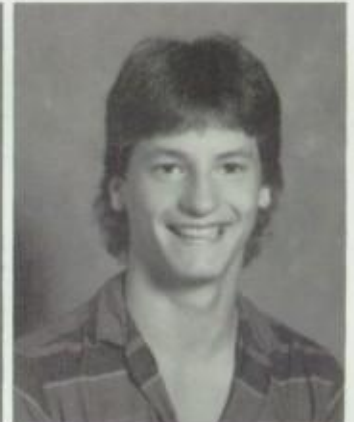

Carver started its first annual candy sale on November 8. Students took World's Finest chocolate bars and lots of enthusiasm out on the pursuit of chocolate-loving customers. Until November 28 you could hear the echoes of, "Do you want to buy a candy bar?" in the halls of the hive. The Carver candy sale was a great success and students are looking forward to next year. The proceeds are expected to go toward a van for team transportation.

Nothing Feels Like Real Gold

Perhaps the hardest decision any junior had to make this year, was what style of class ring to order.

"Ahh!, the time has finally arrived. Now we will be able to show, with highest fidelity, that we represent the class of 1986 and what better way to do it than by buying a class ring! We can finally have a sense of great pride as others notice our bright, luminous stones glimmering in the light. Our spirits will overflow as the envious stare at the letters C-A-R-V-E-R deeply engraved in our rings. Oh, what a feeling!"

These are some of the sentimental values Carver's juniors may feel as they place in their orders for class rings. Some ordered theirs from Balfour, others from Osterman's, Kay's or Zales's, but the feeling of school pride and accomplishment is the same. It takes more than a small deposit and an idea of a design to get a class ring; that is the simple part. The hard part is successfully completing twelve years of school.

Graduation is not a simple task; it is a long, tedious, time enduring process. However, once your class ring bearing, "Carver High" and "Class of '86" is slipped onto your finger, you feel as though the hard work was all worthwhile, and you will truly be a member of the Class of '86.

Eric Hampton

Eric Hampton's career goal is to be an elementary school teacher. He says he has always wanted to be an elementary school teacher since fourth grade.

The reason Eric wants to teach is because a shortage of male teachers exists in the early grades and because Eric loves little kids.

Eric wants to go into teaching for awhile then he would like to go back for a major in counseling for a high school.

Eric participates in several school activities. He has played football for Carver High for two years. Eric is also in the Key Club and is our student body president.

Belinda Rash

Belinda Rash is a 17 year old blonde, blue-eyed junior. In her spare time she enjoys working at Winchester Farm. There Belinda cleans stalls, trains horses, and participates in horse races.

After being offered the job by a friend of the family, she gladly accepted in order to get to work with the horses. She says they pay is somewhat low, but she is so satisfied with her work that it's worth it. Belinda has been working there for several months, and she has indeed won the respect of her fellow workers at the farm. She hopes to one day become a veterinarian.

Belinda poses with one of her many changes.

October 30th was election day here at Carver. Students experienced the voting process first hand. Students voted during their English and history classes. They were required to show a form of identification before they received a ballot. The purpose of this mock election was to give students experience because in November of 1988 the majority of Carver students will get to place their first votes in the national polls.

Casting one's first vote is a memorable experience, even in a mock election.

Time

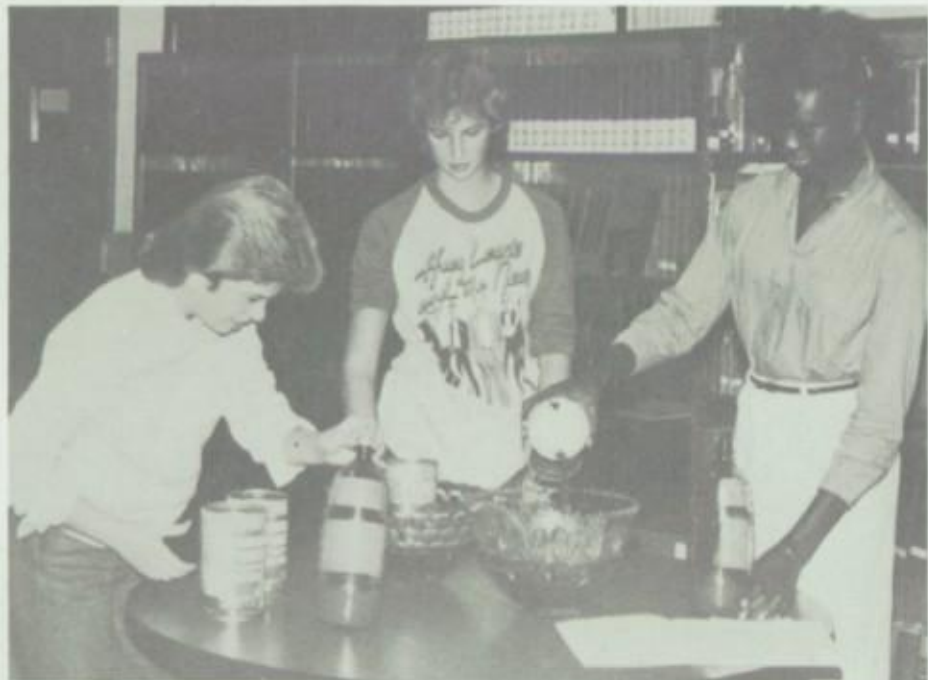

Students are informed about the election process before the election begins.

Walter Moore speaks to interested parents during the mock election.

Geoff Fulton expresses his thoughts on the political issues during the mock election.

Karen Pegram, April Hancock, and Kim Gamble served refreshments after the election.

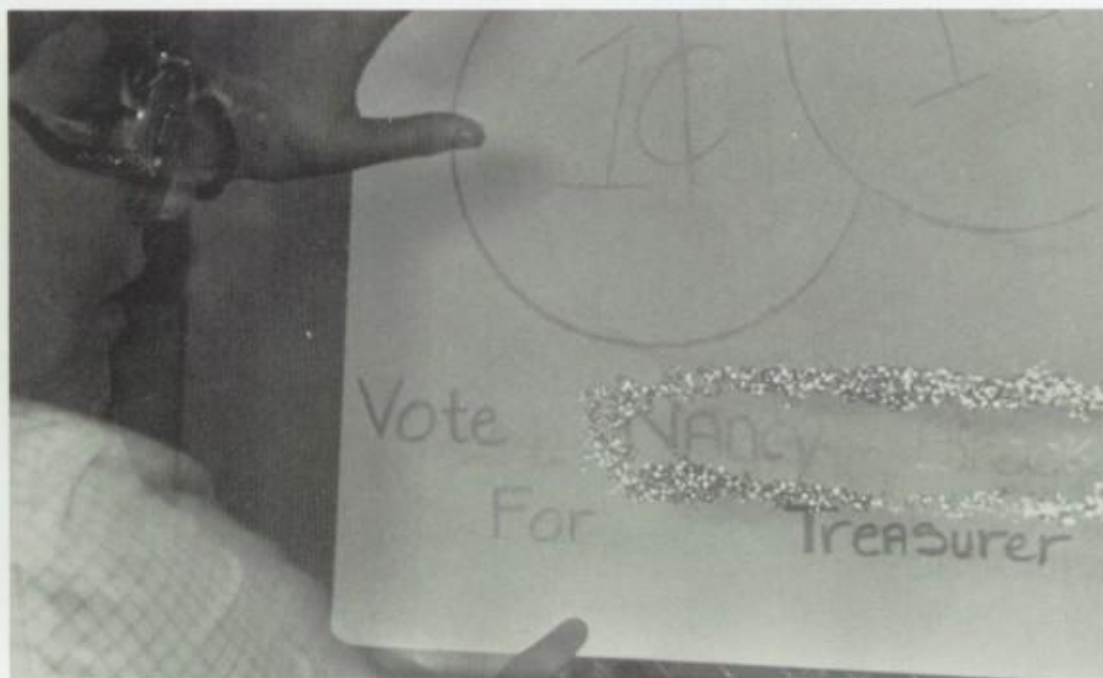

Rachel Roddy draws attention to some of the finer points of her candidate during the Reagan-Mondale elections.

Kim Robillard and Craig Davis serve on a panel with other students and parents who cooperatively discussed the political issues.

Student Council is a training ground for future community leaders.

Missy Ingram shows her poster to friends as the Student Council campaign begins.

Nancy Brooks and Pam Bostic are eagerly putting up campaign posters for student elections.

Each student council candidate delivered a speech to the student body

Student Council held an election in the fall to elect new student leaders, both for the student body as a whole, and for each individual class. Campaign buttons, posters, and anxious candidates were to be found all over school. The election was a success and fine officers were selected to lead the student body.

David Payne

Most young people don't know what they would like to become when they are grown, but not in David Payne's case. David is a junior here and he knows just what he would like to become in the future. He would like to be an actor.

David feels that he can become an actor with hard work and determination. David has been interested in the performing arts for about five years. He has been in the drama club for two years and has taken drama as a class for two years. He has won an award for outstanding actor in the drama festival. He has had several lead roles in the play done for the drama festival, including "Benjamin" in The Reform of Benjamin Scrimpt and "Frederick" in the Pirates of Penzance. David has also been in an explorer post group at the Little Theatre for about one year. This explorer group is for people who are interested in the performing arts.

Some of David's hobbies are acting, singing, playing the piano and playing tennis. David says that if he does not get to be an actor or entertainer that he will fall back on his interest and teach some kind of performing art. The fact that he enjoys being on the stage and making people happy inspires David to work at becoming an actor.

David says he is working on some skits with Mrs. Moyer that he wishes to use for his auditions to the N.C. School of the Arts.

The aspects David likes best about Carver is its great drama department, his drama teacher, Mrs. Moyer, and his English teacher Mrs. Peterson, and last but certainly not least, his friends.

Amanda Williams

Amanda Williams may get teased by her male classmates about being the only girl in a classroom full of boys, which is ironically taught by a woman, Ms. Warren, but that doesn't affect how well she does in drafting. Since Amanda has been here at Carver she has made straight A's in her drafting classes.

Now a junior who is presently enrolled in architectural drafting, she has many awards to her credit. In the 1983 Dixie Classic Fair, Amanda won second place for her two pt. perspective. In the NCIAA, in which she was competing against industrial art drafting students from all over North Carolina, she also received honorable mention for her notched slide rendering. She won first premium for machine rendering-ink; she won first premium for her full revolution — all in the 1984 Dixie Classic Fair!

Amanda plans to go to college after she graduates and major in architecture. She hopes to become an architect one day, but she knows it will take hard work and determination. It looks as if Amanda Williams is well on her way!

Fall Sports Awards

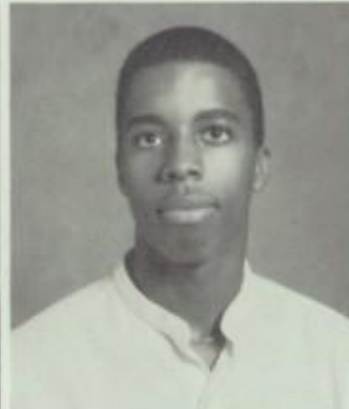

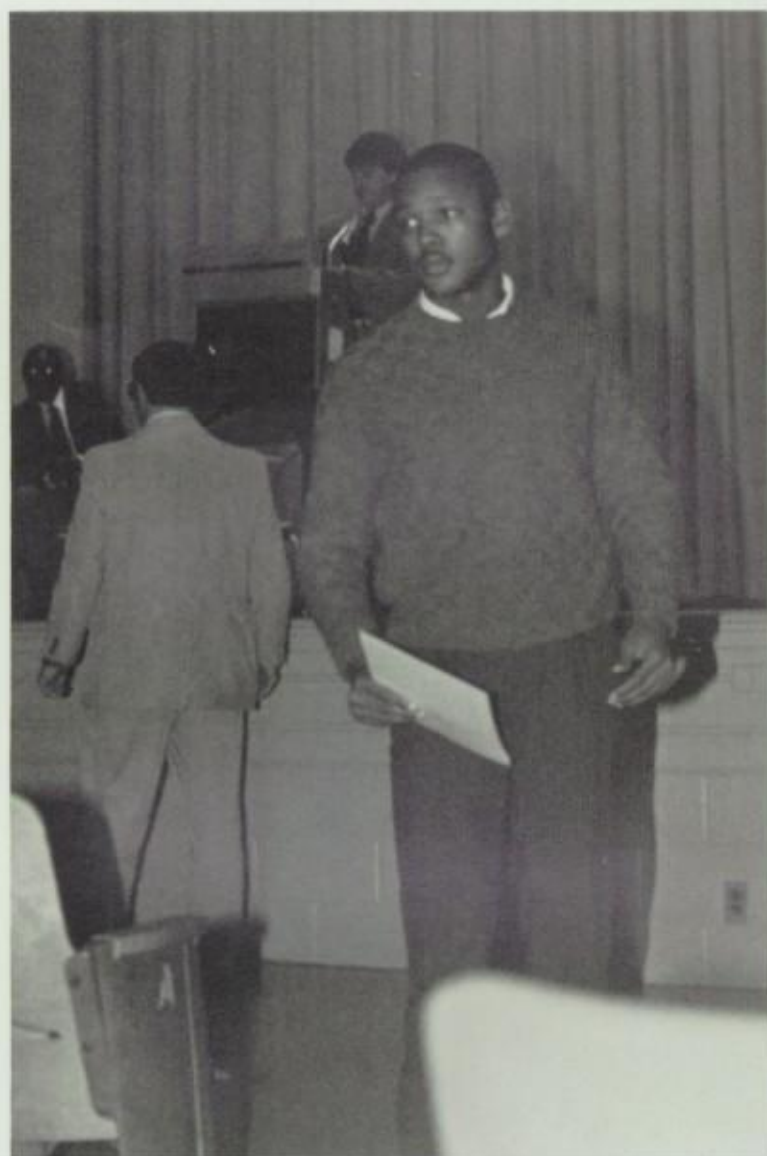

This year at Carver High the athletic department held a banquet for all the male and female players who were involved in fall sports. Many of the players received letters or awards. Johnnie Hinton

Where can you find a student who is athletic, scholastic, popular, and well-liked by his peers? You can find him at CHS. His name is Johnnie Hinton, and he is a junior. During the fall and winter, Johnnie played soccer and basketball. He is also a member of the Key Club, Science Club, and the Quiz Bowl Team. Johnnie's hobbies include basketball, sport cars, movies, music, television, and designs. He also likes to travel. Being the scholar that he is, Johnnie has all academic and honors classes and is ranked number one in his class. He plans to further his studies at N.C. State and major in architecture. His goal is to be an architect or architectural engineer.

Students at the Hive indulge in their fair share of junk food throughout the day. Everywhere you walk in the halls you see someone with a sucker in his mouth or M and M's in their hands. Especially at lunch the junk food junkies appear. The cafeteria staff is now serving vanilla and fudge pops in the cafeteria for the students who stay on campus for lunch. Many of the juniors dine on chips and burgers, french-fries and pizza, BBQ and banana splits.

Construction And Destruction

It was really no surprise. We had been living with construction of the senior high addition for an entire year. Yet, when we returned to our classes in the fall the first view from Carver Road was still jolting.

Our familiar surroundings had a new atmosphere. With that first impression, a feeling of freedom, and thoughts of how the new year was going to be like. The school was different for all of the changes that had been made especially accepting what had been done to make the school bigger and better.

We accepted this change very quickly, we used the change to our advantage.

The school was increased with more students, and having more activities, and more clubs. We have made this school more exciting.

As each new occasion surfaced, we didn't sit back and watch it. We took advantage of it, and we changed the atmosphere.

Shh! Not so loud, library under construction.

Billy Harris will enjoy the chance of a lifetime, when he leaves for a ten week stay in Germany. Billy will be an exchange student with the Neilsen family in Hamburg, West Germany and will also visit West and East Berlin. The purpose of his trip is to extend cultural ties between Germany and the United States. He will attend school and work in a major German bank.

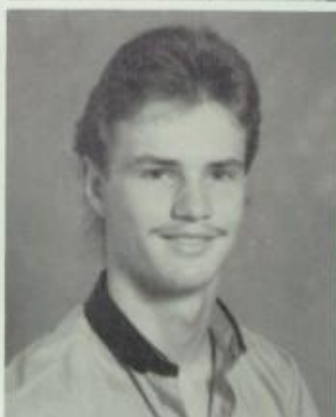

Here at Carver, Billy is a member of the Key Club, the Computer Club, and the Ebony Society.

His sister, Tracey, who also attended Carver, is a pre-law student at the University of Ohio.

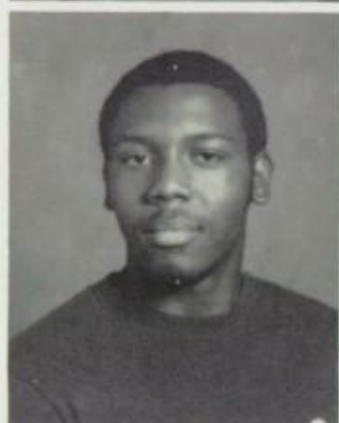

Bill hopes to attend Georgetown University, John Hopkins or Wake Forest. His career plans are as yet undecided but he expects to be either a stock broker or an osteopathic physician.

Her other hobbies include horseback riding, writing music, going to many different kinds of concerts, and being with animals. Judi enjoys many different types of music. She is a music tutor, and also tutors in academic studies. In addition to her musical talent she is an outstanding student. She enjoys running track and playing volleyball. But her greatest love is music.

Ron Sell

Ron Sell has not yet decided on his career but he repeatedly stated that he plans to "get a good education, go to Forsyth Tech., and get a good job." Although his future goals may not yet be clear, his hobbies, wrestling and racing, have thus far become very central in his life.

It is possible that racing may become a future career for Ron, who has been racing motorcycles for three years and karts for seven. He was inspired to select racing as a hobby by his father who has been racing his whole life. If he were to quit racing he would feel a loss in his life. Racing has brought Ron and his father even closer together.

Ron's popularity among the races has earned him an excellent sponsor, Curtis Mathes T.V.'s. With this support, along with his father and Jackie Leak, Ron is able to help with the building of karts. Though the costs of racing are high, about $10,000 in one good season and sometimes double that in bad ones, Ron feels that through racing he's doing a lot of hard work, making money, and having a great time as well as making new friends.

Ron has broken his collar bone, had a concussion and numerous cuts and bruises, but he feels its worth risking his life because he has a passion for racing and the feeling of winning in front of that big crowd is very exciting.

Ron is a very busy young man. With his brand of talent and dedication, he is guaranteed success in any career!

There was never any doubt when Christmas arrived at CHS. Everybody got into the spirit. Santa made daily visits to be photographed with all his favorite little friends — like little Vic Johnson (who asked for an Atari and an electric train set), young Martha Land (who requested HeMan and Skeletor), little Nicole Transou (who asked for twin Cabbage Patch Kids), and tiny Jimmy McDaniels (who asked for a principal — Victoria Principal).

Doors were decorated for the holidays; Christmas parties and celebrations were held daily, and everyone was full of good cheer.

Students Are Active Outside Of School

The Acteens of Walkertown Baptist Church are a group made up of girls aged 12 to 17. They are involved in Foreign Missions, visiting, and helping people. They often visit rest homes and shut-ins. Lori Usrey and Jennifer Morris talk while waiting to visit another Pell-Care patient.

Laura Marshall and Terest Tulbert sing in sign-language to a deaf patient.

Prince

Prince and the Revolution came to North Carolinas Greensboro Coliseum and put on three Fabulous shows Nov. 14-16. Sheila E was the special guest. Tickets went on sale Oct. 1-Nov. 16. The first two shows sold out but tickets were available for the last show. The show started out with Sheila E on drums. She fancied the crowd with her laser drum sticks. The best was yet to come. Prince came out under the floor with sounds of "Lets go Crazy," He thrilled The Crowd By Saying "Hello Greensboro, My name is Prince, and I've come to play with You. He sang Ballads from his last Album 1999, and Purple Rain, including "God," and "Fathers Song". His Royal badness is definitely "Bad". The show was fantastic.

Any spare minutes students at CHS have might be spent behind a magazine about Prince.

The Spirit Of Carver

The Yellowjacket appears in many forms and in many places.

Since 1957, Carver High has stood as a symbol of victory in the city of Winston-Salem. Her mascot is the fighting Yellowjacket, and its emblem is stamped on teeshirts, sweatshirts, pennants, bumperstickers, keychains, hats, posters, buttons, and even jewelry at CHS! It is the stinging Yellowjacket, the pride of the hive, which is surely alive in '85!

They Shop Till They Drop!

Mostly everyone here at Carver loves to shop. Shopping is a favorite pastime for students at CHS. Hanes Mall is one of the scenes that offers a wide selection of stores for the different kinds of shoppers, like for instance, there's Thalhimers that offers clothes for the shoppers who don't mind paying more, from different designers Yves Saint, Laurent, Ralph Lauren, Gloria Vanderbilt, Anne Klein, Esprit, Calvin Klein, Evan Diccone, Etienne Aigner, Guess, Cherokee, and many more. Belks is competition for Thalhimers offering the same selection of clothes as Thalhimers'. There's also the Limited, Perinkles, the Body Shop, Paul Harris, County Seat, and Just Pants. For the shopper who likes bargains, there's Ormonds, Stuarts, Rosaines, Marianne's and G'Angie's.

Yolanda Moses dreams of one day having a hamster of her very own.

Adrianne Barringer demonstrates off the rack shopping in a beautiful nighty.

The latest album craze brings Temple Gray to her selection the Fat Boys.

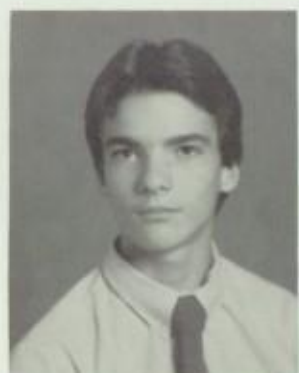

Wendy Hanes and Shaun Alexander are suitably impressed with a possible purchase.

On a cold and windy Friday night, the junior class officers, with the help of sponsors Miss Robinson and Mrs. Pegram, threw a dance to raise money for the Junior Class Prom. The dance, which followed Carver's first meeting of Mount Tabor, had a great turn-out. A large amount was raised.

The Freaks come out at night!

They're just being with friends.

Two students try the slow-drag.

Will this be the latest dance of '85?

Dancing alone is still fun.

What Are Friends For?

It seems as though every class, club, and organization at Carver High has had a fund raiser this year. Everything imaginable (and edible!) has been pushed, pedaled and promoted this year.

The Student Council sold candy canes and "I love Carver" buttons, and Jacket Jewelry. The Apiary staff sold Carver keychains, bumperstickers, Boo-bags, and pictures with Santa. The Key Club sold Valentine carnations and sponsored a kissing booth. DECA sold candy. Homemaking sold recipe books. ROTC sold M & M's. The freshman class sold lollipop bouquets for Valentines. All in all, Carver students should provide dental office in the community with lots of new business!

Apryl Brandon and Cynthia Rorie take a break from being Santa's elves to put in a few requests of their own.

Jill Doss makes another sale for the freshman class.

We held a successful pep rally Jan 3., just before the North Forsyth game. The cheerleaders performed first, telling the crowd to "Pump It Up". They then moved to center court to perform the crowd pleaser "Fight Hard."

Next came the Introduction of the teams — wrestling, swim team, girls basketball, boys JV, and boys varsity basketball teams.

After the introductions, the Sweet Stingers took the floor to do their thing to "The Glamorous Life."

After a number from the band, Mr. McD came out to lead the crowd in the cheer, "Gimme a C!", which really got the spirit going. One last cheer from the cheerleaders closed the pep rally and left everyone ready to take on the Vikings of North Forsyth.

The crowd waits with anxious anticipation for the pep rally to begin.

The Sweet Stingers are always a favorite with the crowd.

Some members of the crowd are livelier than others.

Cupid Visits Carver

With his bow and arrows, red wings transporting himself through the crowded halls of Carver Senior High School, you see smiles, carnations, and kisses being shared and given amidst friends and lovers. Yes, Cupid visited Carver on the 14th of February spreading love and happiness to all. He visited each homeroom delivering carnations and sucker bouquets to special people.

During the luncheon period of the day, a kissing booth was erected in the dining facilities. Kisses were a quarter a piece. Some people got lucky and received two-for-one.

As Shakespeare once said, "Love sought is good, but given unsought is better."

Its nice to have a friend.

Games People Play

Tammy Jones prepares to play a game of Centipede.

Ravon Bailey tries his luck at penball.

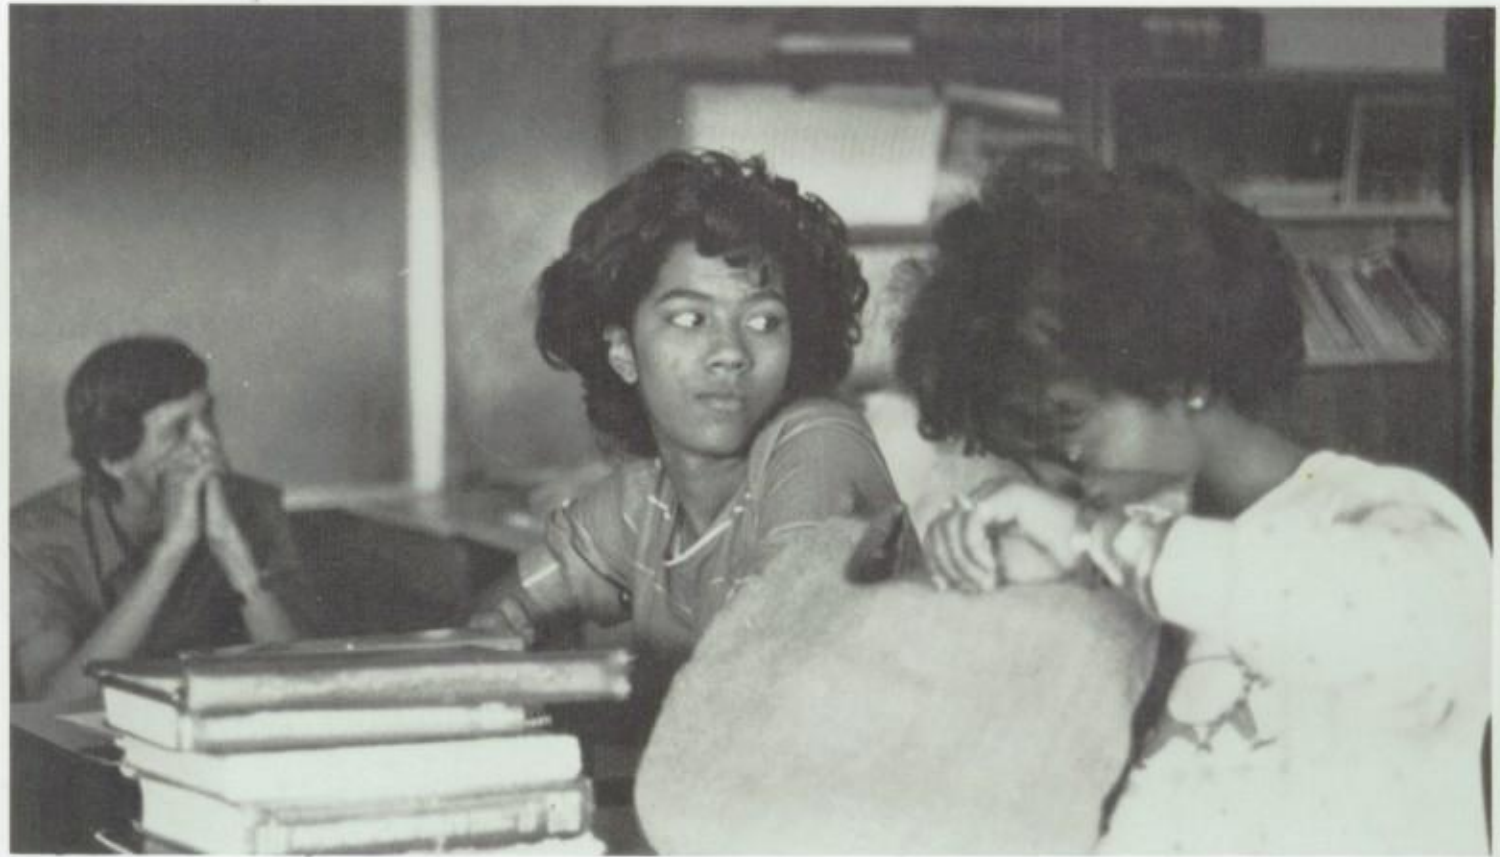

Video games have become a part of students' lives here at the Hive. There are many great masters of the video games at Carver, including games such as Pole Position, Dragon's Lair, Centipede, etc.

Students use the games just to pass time away and then again maybe students to just fit in with the crowd.

Many students hang out at the mall and meet friends there and then they all begin their conquest to conquer the video games of the world.

To play many of these video games you must be very skilled and practice quite a bit. So from the scores of the students here at Carver it is evident that they all are very skilled.

The Dancers Unlimited perform at a Jacket assembly, in honor of Black History Month.

The Carver High chorus gets into the swing of things.

As We Assemble

Mr. Boone and his bonny band bring us a breath-taking performance during the Christmas assembly.

Carver had several successful and enjoyable assemblies this year. The Honors Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Frances Weaver, and our fine band, under the direction of Mr. Rudolph Boone performed in the Christmas assembly, which got everyone into the Christmas spirit. Another fine assembly was the Dancers Unlimited, comprised of students from several area schools, including Carver.

Believe It Or Not

The creature from the Black Lagoon is chatting with Amy Duggins and Laura Marshall.

A reject from Ringling Brothers.

Aurelia Hill, Beauty and the Beast.

Spooks and goblins, candy and fun, that's what Halloween is made of. Students were encouraged this year to wear the most haunting attire and they most certainly did. Even the teachers got in on the fun. There were all kinds of creatures stalking the Carver halls. There were ghosts and ghostbusters, witches and werewolves, and some creatures that could not even be identified. Carver will long remember the Halloween of '84.

We are spirits in the material world.

The odd couple.

Rena Williams

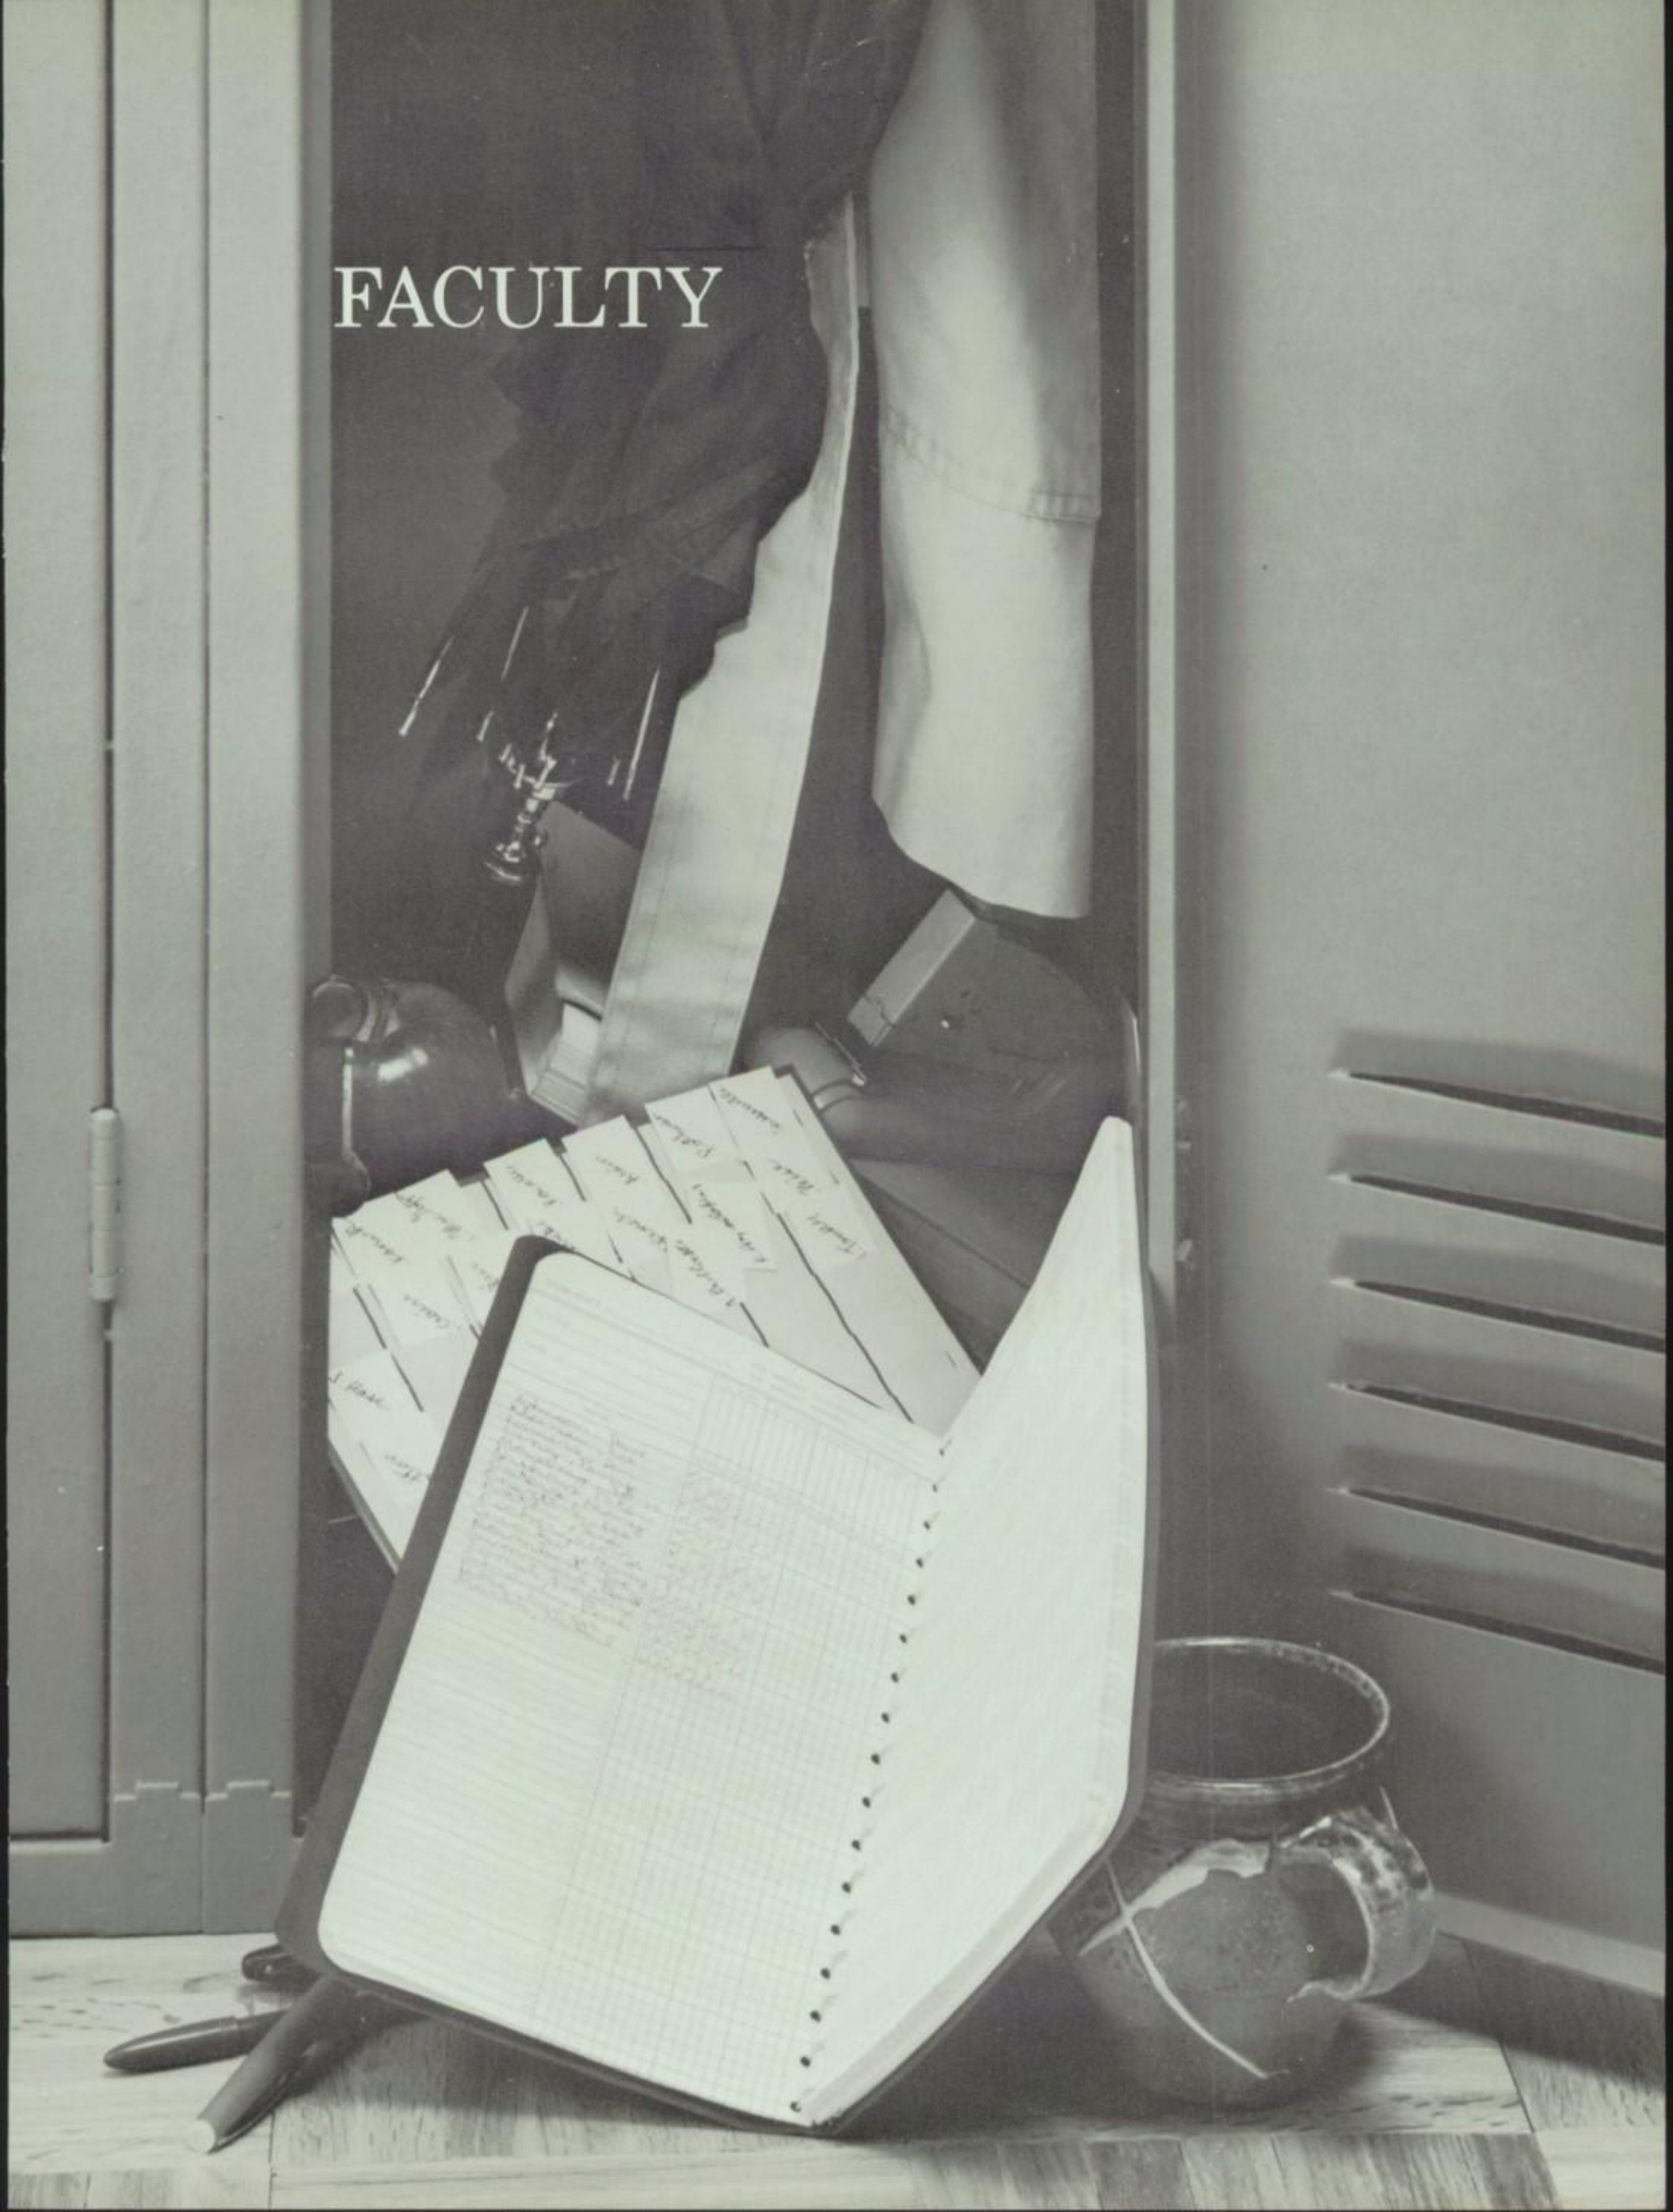

Rena, a Carver freshman, attended Barbizon School of Modeling. There she took modeling classes for two years where she completed all of the classes and got correct training. After her first year, Rena attended various fashion show, and also took pictures through workshops. She has traveled to Paris, Belgium, and New York for orientations, and lectures for exposure and other particular reasons. In Europe, Rena met with agents and models. She also met famous designers like Calvin Klien and Gloria Vanderbilt. Rena says she loves modeling, but decided to finish college and pursue modeling in her spare time.

Yellowjackets: A Buzzy Group

The team and the coaches were a very determined group.

Rodney Liles, Chris Motley, Dee Moya, John Peterson, John Troy Witherspoon, Carlos Ashby, and Jeremiah Johnson gather around to get a "squig" from the water bottle.

The Jackets take control of the ball.

Prepare For The Big Sting

The 1984-5 football season proved to be not only a successful one, but also a very interesting one for the gridiron men of CHS. The new revamping of the school system has created a few temporary setbacks for our players and coaches, but has fallen far short of damping their spirit and determination.

They have had to deal with the loss of some key players and the addition of others who are slightly inexperienced, but says coach Jim Bovender, "This is a year to build to enter 4A ball. Once we get established we'll be in good shape."

The team was not able to participate in regular conference games this year, but the coaches and team members worked hard to once again make Carver a major force in high school football.

Lady Jackets: Winners!

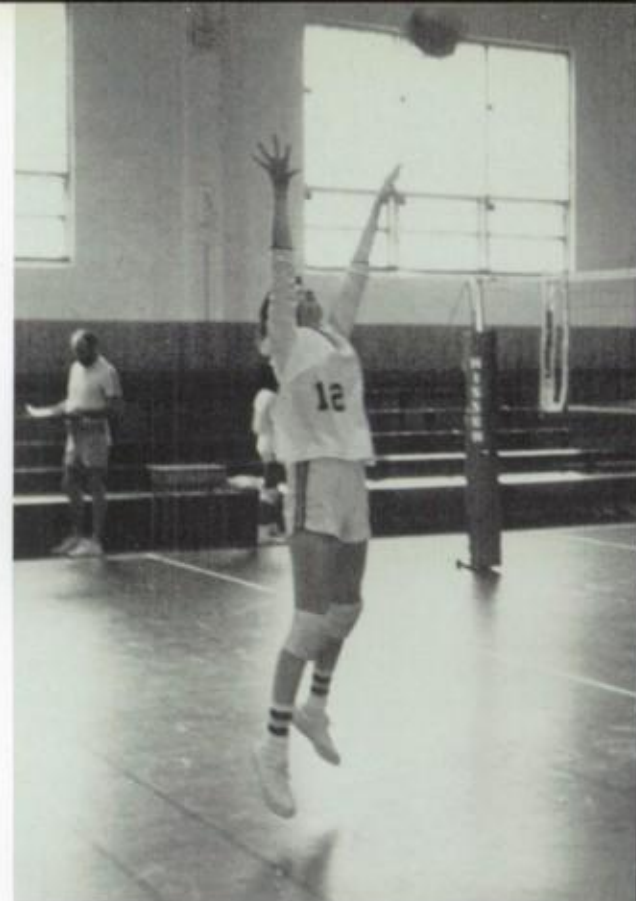

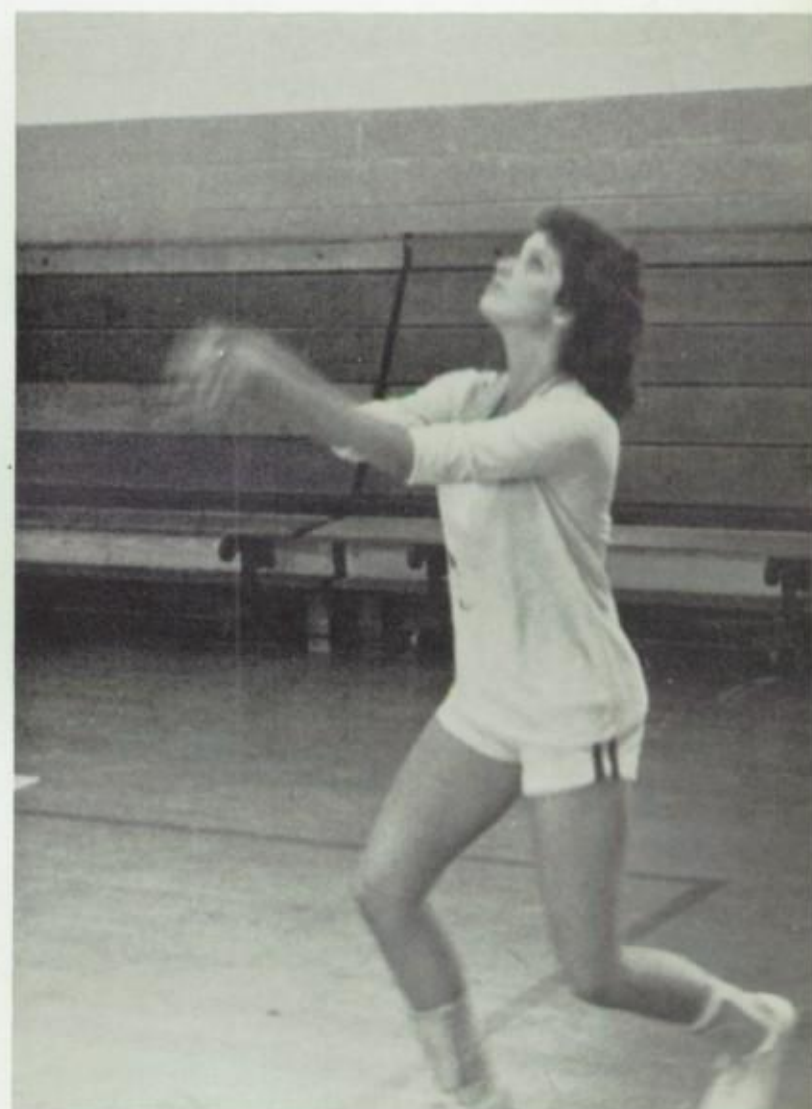

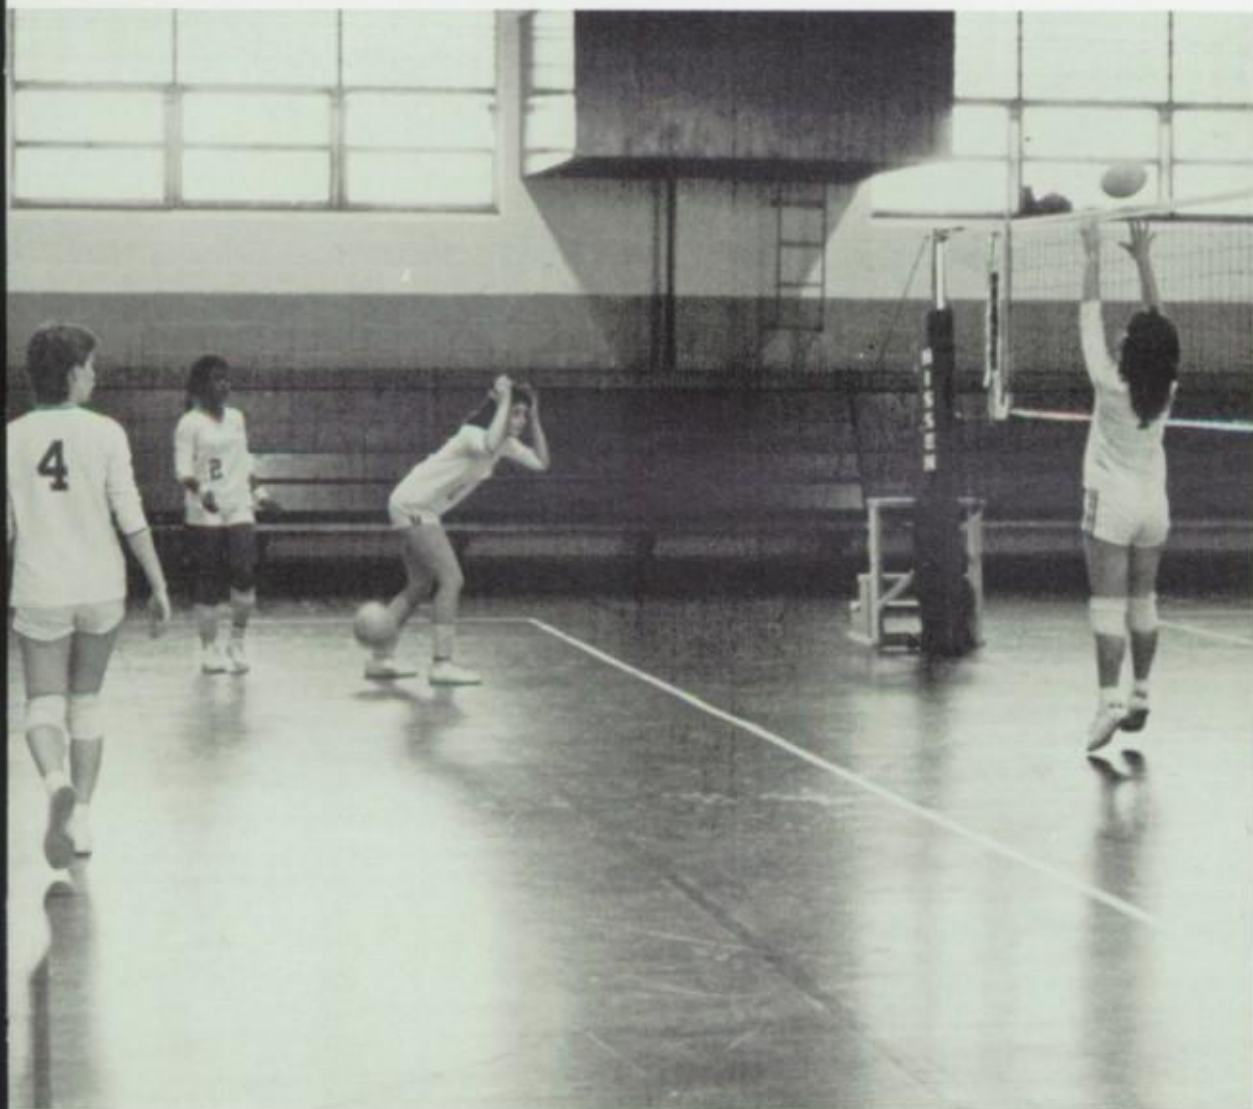

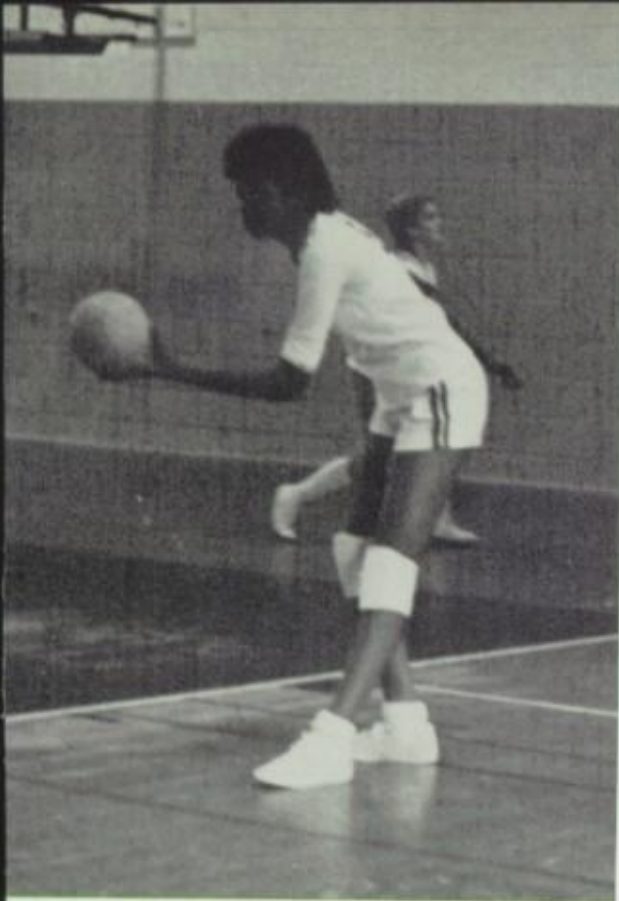

Under the expert leadership and guidance of Mrs. Peggy Witherspoon and Mr. Key, the girls volleyball team smashed, aced, scored and triumphed. Again this year, the volleyball team displayed an enormous amount of talent and team work. They totally thrashed, annihilated, humiliated, and did away with the opposing teams.

They're full of beauty, grace, and power.

Amy Ellegood could send the ball anywhere she chooses.

No ball is too high for Amy Ellegood.

Pame Sawyer practices her serve before the game.

A near-miss puts team members through momentary agony.

These hands are faster than the speed of sound.

Soccermania!

The Yellowjackets attempt to assume control of the ball.

We have a momentary lull in the action.

John Sams keep up with his opponent by playing skillfully.

Eugene Roddy and Chris DeHart have a chat about the approaching soccer match while Johnny Hinton and Tim Douthit look on.

This season was a first for Carver in several respects. Soccer was born at CHS this year. Our players were all novices, but what they lacked in experience they made up with enthusiasm and dedication. The team had no wins this season, but they gained experience and learned from their mistakes.

Coach Lovell taught the players basic skills and moves. He noticed much improvement by all the players throughout the season, and looks forward to a strong team next year. He stresses that soccer skills have to be reinforced with a lot of practice. It takes time and concentration to build a soccer team. We're expecting a great soccer season next year.

Soccermania!

Who'll get to the ball first?

Don't give up Jackets! (And don't fall down).

Watch out, Pele! Here's Carver's Tribut Williamson.

Girls Tennis

Candice Dixon, Shannon Hartline, Jenee Cross, Carol Briles, Lori Urser, Katrina Koontz, Kelly Sharpe

Carver's girls tennis team had an outstanding season this year, under the direction of Coach Jennie Buckner. One of the top Jacket players was Jenee Cross who made it to the State Championship and came in first place. Not only did the girls refine their tennis skills, they also practiced team work and discipline. Many of the players were novices but gained a lot of experience during the season and will come back next year ready to win.

Shannon Hartline volleys for control of the ball.

Kelly Sharpe awaits a serve from one of her team mates.

One of the most difficult parts of the game is to serve, and Carol Briles continually works on hers.

Cross Country

Coach Kirby led the Cross Country team to success in the fall. He said that the team members put forth a lot of effort and that the scoring was about what he had expected because of the new high school system organization. Kirby believes that next year will be great because the runners will have some experience.

There is no limit on the numbers of members on the cross country team, but you can only enter five players in the meets. Our team had only five members so if one of the players had been injured Carver would have had to withdraw from the meets.

The following members of the cross country team won five meets and lost seven: Mike Joyner, James Brewton, Tyrone Caesar, Ricky Greenlee, and Darrell Harriett. In addition, Mike Joyner was selected ALL CITY ALL COUNTY RUNNER and finished third place in the ALL COUNTY meet.

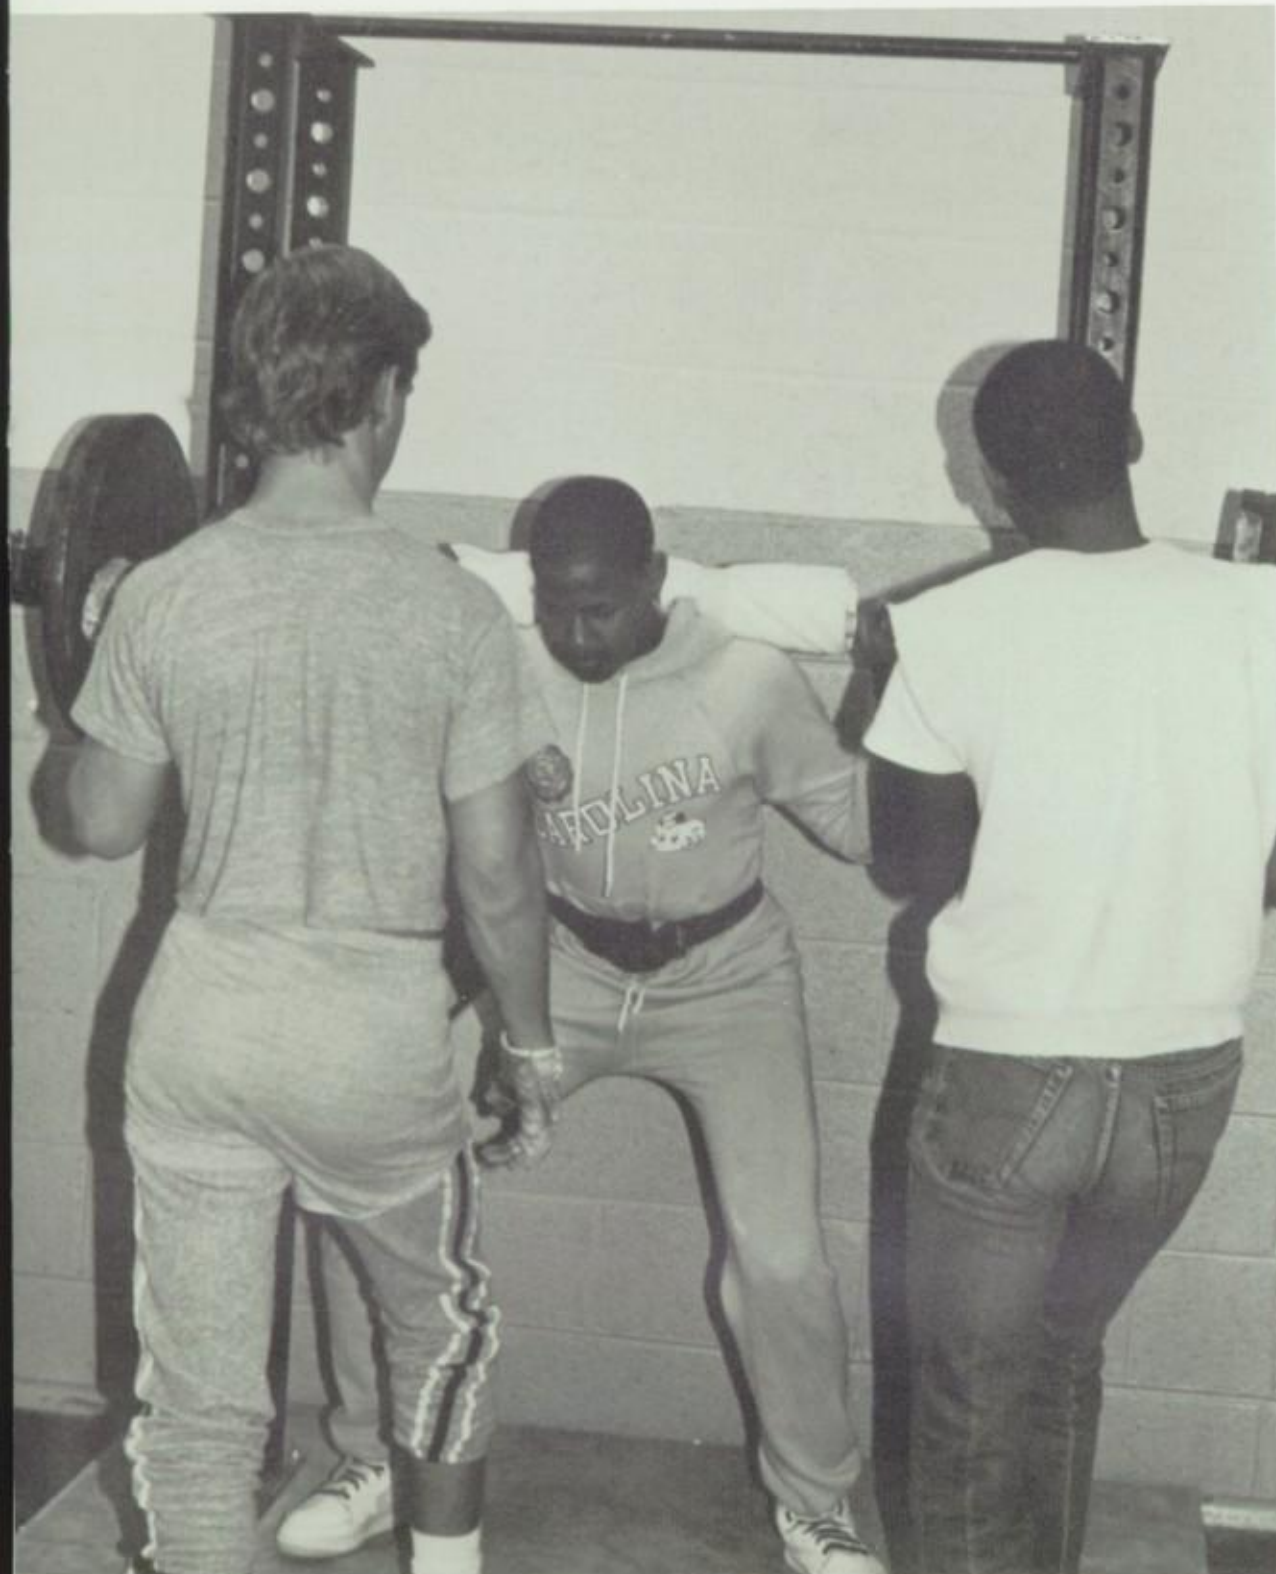

Weight Training

Coach Jim Bovender supervises training in the weight room both during the day and after school.

Many athletes participate in the weight training, but primarily football players and wrestlers work out in the weight room.

Rolando Stucky works out on the weight bench.

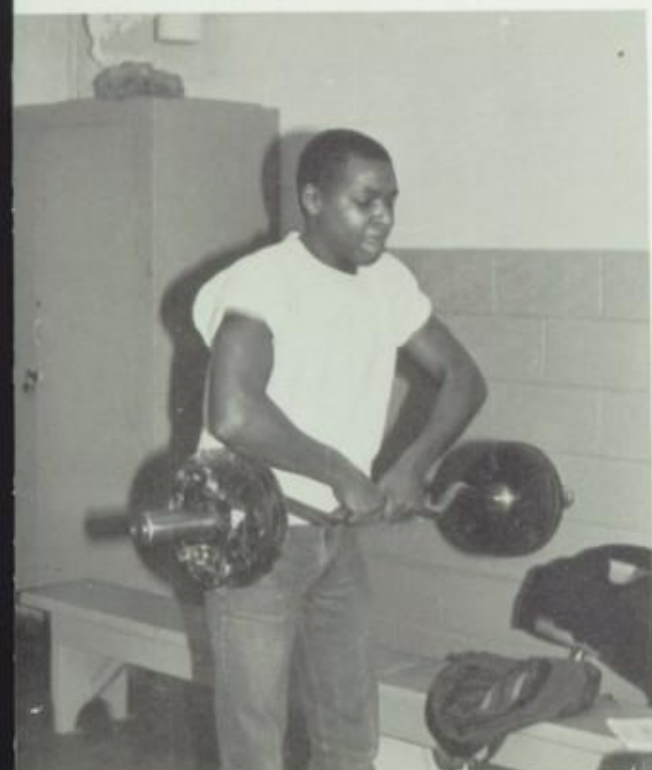

Rolando Stucky has the moral support of team mates Rex Rideout and Keir Richard as he lifts weights.

Keir Richard gives it all he has in a workout in the weight room.

Rolando Stucky supervises the weight training of team mate Rex Rideout.

The Yellowjacket wrestling team is coached by Mike Lovell. Three outstanding wrestlers on the team, who all have winning records include John Timmons (with a win-loss record of 12-4), Clinton Barber (with a record of 12-4), and Ken McHam (who has a record of 16-4).

To qualify, wrestlers must meet certain weight requirements. Wrestlers must be a particular weight or under that weight in order to qualify for their weight division.

During the off-season, the Carver wrestlers may be found working out in the weight room.

Coach Lovell stated that this was a "transition year" for the Jacket wrestlers, but that next year he expects them to be formidable forces in 4-A competition.

Jackets Pin Them Down

Jill Oakley and Jill Doss watches the referee intensively to keep score for the Carver wrestling match.

Front: Ken McHam, John Timmons, Clinton Barber

Middle: Donnie Davis, Lee Cruise, Rick Greenlee, Billy Daves, Keir Richard

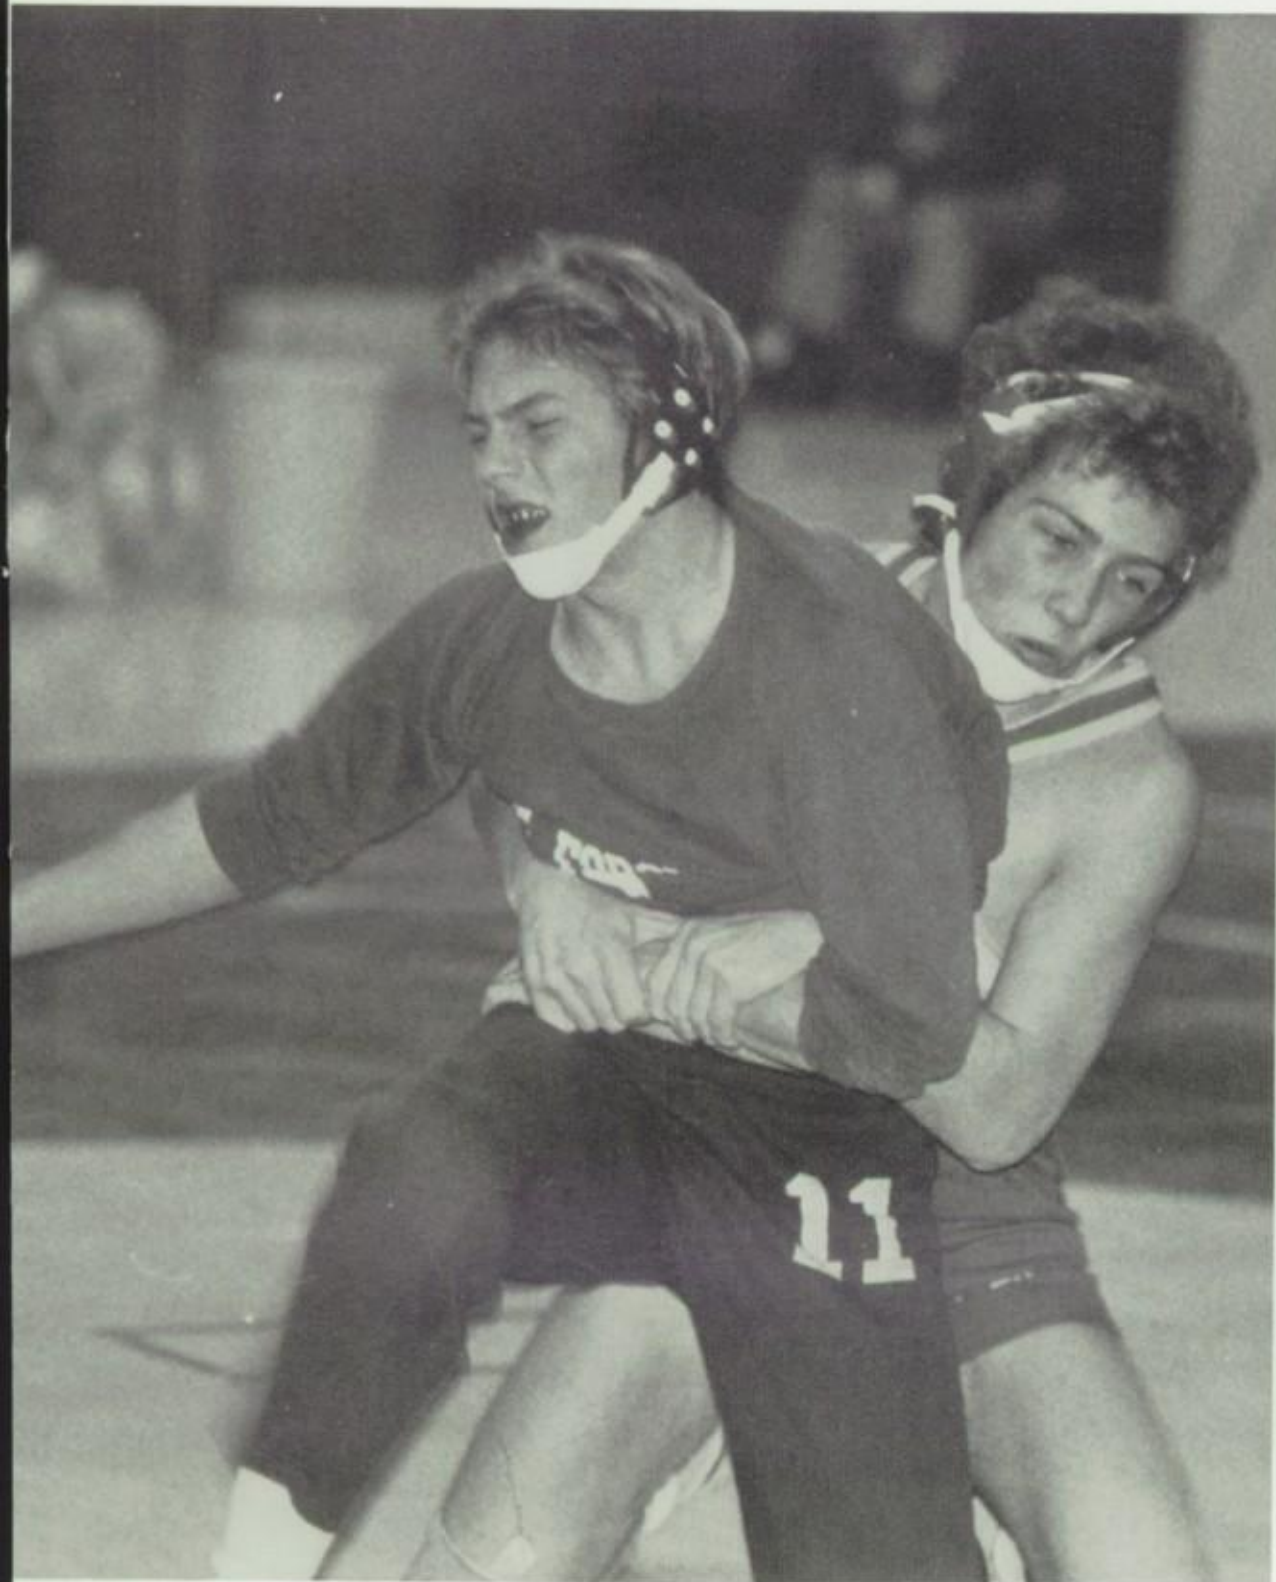

Back: Shaw Hynes, Ron Sell, Chris Davis, Anthony McCollum

A hive member puts tremendous effort into pinning an opponent.

We had an outstanding wrestling team this year, under the direction of a new coach: Coach Lovell.

Their record was not quite as outstanding as the team, however. Coach Lovell said the team did not have quite enough experience. But he has high hopes for next year.

Rodney Crouse strains to move his opponent back onto the mats.

Anthony McCullum gets pumped up to pin his opponent.

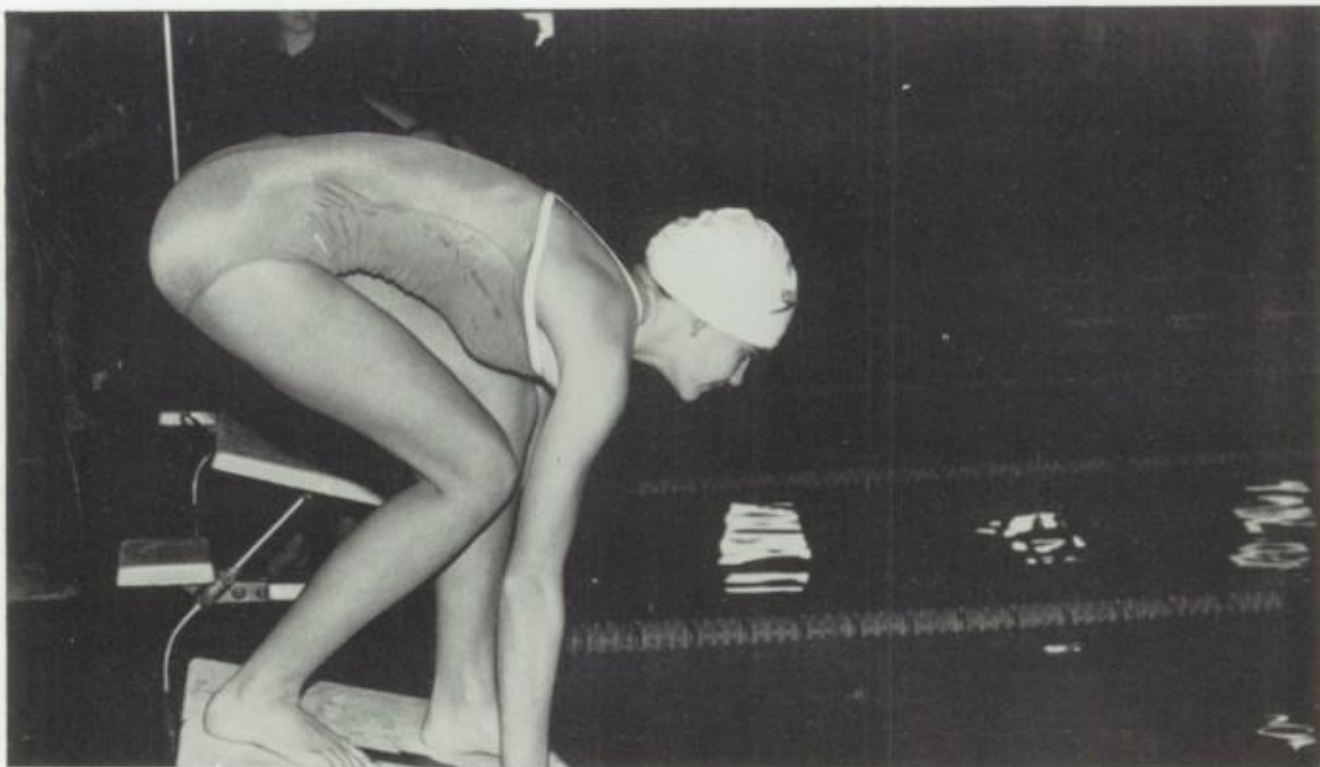

Chris Davis and Keir Richard are overcome with determination as they observe the performance of a team mate.

We Swim To Win

This years swim team was a first for Carver. The team members swam through their first season with great enthusiasm. Even though they didn't have a winning record, they did get a good head start on next years season. All of the swimmers gained valuable experience in swim competition.

The coaches were Mr. Kurt Telford and Miss Janet Yates. They stressed racing the clock instead of worrying about who came in first. Everyone on the team improved his time by the end of the season. Mr. Telford and Miss Yates are hoping for additional swimmers for next year and hope to increase the popularity of swimming at Carver.

Carol Briles is on her mark, ready and set to go.

Miss Yates and Bracy Martin confer on strategy.

Miss Yates gives Kim Gamble, Amy Duggins and Carol Briles some last minute instructions.

Angie Hill demonstrates fine diving form.

We're All Wet

Sam Harrison, Cory Giles, Amy Duggins, and Nash Lawson are interested in the performances of their fellow swim team members.

Kim Gamble is ready to take off.

Coach Kurt Telford is confident that the swimming Yellowjackets are doing their best to win.

Bracy Martin takes a breath after an exhausting swim.

Jackets: Raw Power

Corey Belton jumps high into the air for a lay-up as his fellow team mates protect the area on the ground.

The Yellowjackets are a little faster and jump a little higher.

One Jacket can outjump a half dozen Spartans on the basketball court.

The Yellowjackets finished the varsity basketball season with a record of 10-12. It was the first year in the school's return to 4A athletics and the team did a great job competing without seniors on the squad.

Of the three new high schools in the county, Carver laid claim to the first victory in the Frank Spencer Tournament by one of these squads. The outlook for next year is very optimistic. The outstanding players were: Ray Agnew, Billy Davis, Richard Daniels, Derick Debnam, Tim Douthit, Fernando Horn, Devon Huntley, Sterling Samuels, Johnnie Hinton, and Ben Miller.

Fernando Horn and Corey Belton pray for victory.

Ray Agnew prepares to take the jumpball from his opponent.

The Yellowjackets warm up before the game.

Lady Jackets Triumph

The girl's basketball team had a winning season with 13 wins and only 7 losses. The coach was Mr. Denny Key. The girls were hard workers and gladly endured hours of practice. We outscored Mt. Tabor, Wilkes Central, Bishop McGuinness, Dudley, North, N. Surry, Durham Hillside, Statesville, and Glenn.

Bridgette Boston and Pame Sawyer have the spirit and determination necessary for a winning team.

One Homerun After Another

In Carver's first baseball game of the year there was heart stoppage and wild excitement. Carver went ahead very quickly against N. Stokes in the first inning. Between the first inning and the top of the seventh, the Vikings had scored 5 runs to lead 5 to 3. To bring what they thought might be the final blow to the game, in the top of the seventh the coach of the Vikings brought in his ace fast ball pitcher. Carver had the top part of the order up. Lance Grubbs led off with a double into left field. Next up was Ladd Whicker who walked. They moved to second and third on a double steal. Rodney McKoy smacked a single into left field scoring 5-5. Eric Hampton then pounded a double into the out field scoring McKoy. Then the next batter, John Sams, proceeded to punch over the center fielders head scoring Hampton. In the last of the inning, and after the last of the dust had settled, the Yellowjackets had put the sting on the North Stokes Vikings by a score of 7 to 5. It was an exciting beginning of a winning season by the Carver baseball players.

Tennis Aces

The '85-'86 boys tennis team consisted of a group of nine prominent young players.

Participating in this sport were juniors Jeff Carter, Chris Gardener, Donald Grant and David Payne; sophomores Sean Campbell, and Warren Glen, and freshmen Jeff Fulton and Robert Tuttle. The season began in late February and ended in late April. There were two matches a week. The coach was Mrs. Jennie Buckner. According to Mrs. Buckner and the players, the season was a tremendous learning experience and a great success.

Girls Soccer Golf

The Girls Soccer team was coached by Mr. Lovell. They proved to be a most talented group, as well as athletic and attractive, as evidenced by the smiling faces of Kim Bennett and Kim Lewis.

The Golf team, coached by Gerald Carter, was a small but powerful group of four young men, including Dewey Ball, Pete Birkner, Tommy Anderson and Donnie Davis.

academics

English Is In

Several different classes are taught within the English department. Not only Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior English are taught, but also drama, journalism, and yearbook publication.

Freshman English consists primarily of composition, short stories, drama, including Romeo and Juliet, grammar, vocabulary and all forms of literature.

Julius Caesar is the Shakespearian play taught in the tenth grade, as well as vocabulary, grammar, all forms of literature, and research skills. A short research paper is usually done.

Junior English is a study of American literature. Research skills are taught as students do their first major term paper. Students read a variety of literary works by American authors, and again work on vocabulary and grammar.

Journalism is the study of publication and the class publishes the school newspaper, The Carver Courier, under the direction of Mr. Hal Tise. Four editors are published per year.

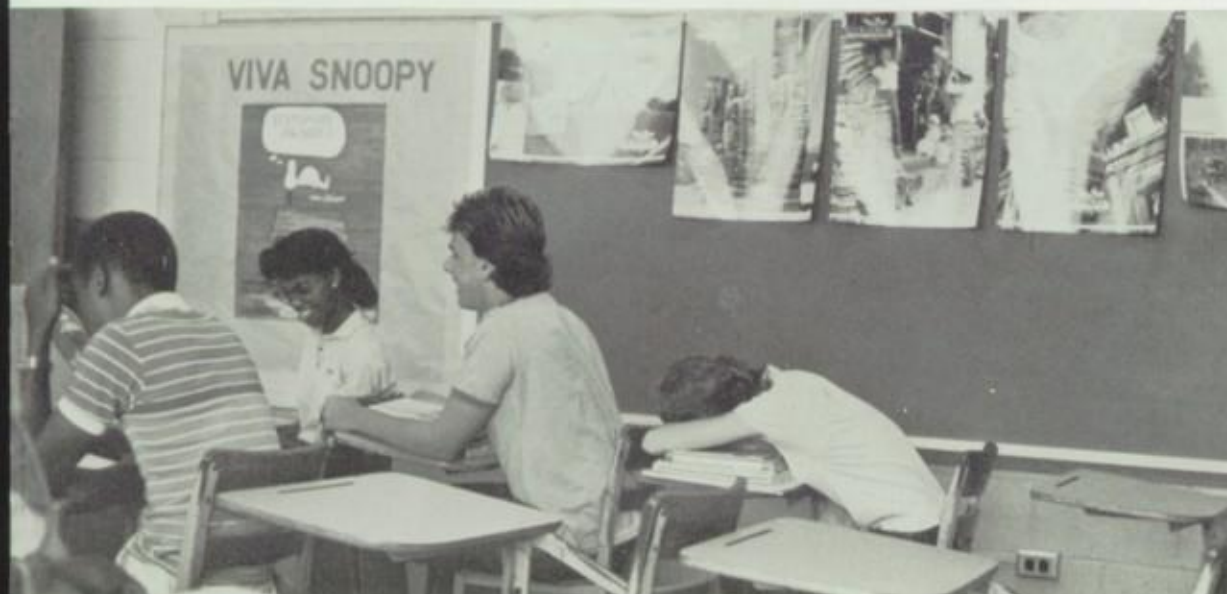

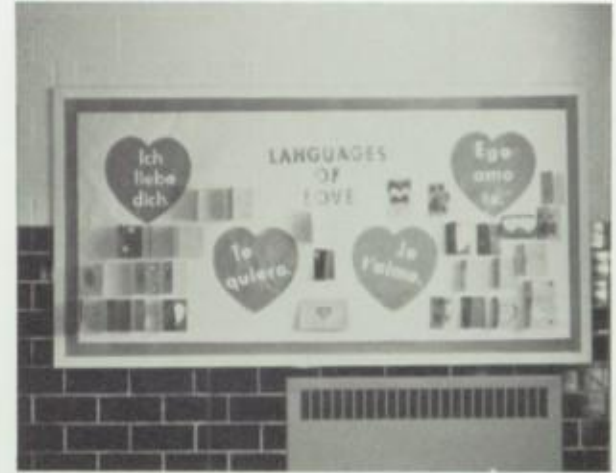

In the drama class students are introduced to the performing arts. They had several outstanding performances including Pirates of Penzance at the Drama Festival. Mrs. Anne Moye is the director of the drama class, and is assisted by Mr. Hal Tise.

In yearbook publication students study the many facets of photojournalism. Most of the actual work on the yearbook is done after school and on weekends by members of the Apiary staff.

Activities and experiences are diverse in the different English classes: whether studying and re-enacting Julius Caesar, visiting the Wake Forest library, doing creative writing, or studying The Scarlet Letter.

Language And Culture Taught

The French program at CHS is so strong that not only do students speak French, they also write in French. Second year students wrote and illustrated original poetry, and also wrote their own autobiographies. All levels of French students competed in a poster contest for Foreign Language Week. Many outstanding posters were displayed throughout the school. French is taught by Mrs. Mary Ellen Smyth.

Both French and Spanish students plan to attend the Lenoir Rhyne College Foreign Language Festival in March.

Two Spanish students entered the Salem College Foreign Language Competition where Tonja Adams recited "El Viaje Definido" by Jimenez for the Level III competition, and Jack Jones entered the Level II competition.

Twenty Spanish students attended "Las Aventuras de Don Quijote," a bi-lingual production at Salem College Fine Arts Center. Spanish is taught by Miss Cindy Olsen.

First year German and three years of Latin are offered at Carver this year, with additional levels to be added to the curriculum next year. Mrs. Awilda Neal is the German teacher and Mrs. Jennie Buckner teaches Latin.

Science Matters

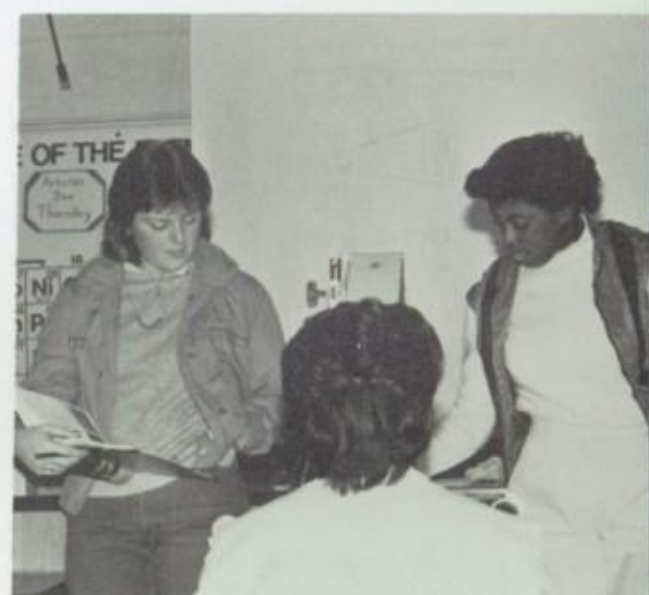

Investigation is the keywork in the many sciences taught at CHS, and students are given hands-on opportunities to investigate, experiment, and experience.

Several different courses in science are taught at Carver, with more to be added next year.

Anatomy and Physiology is an elective science course taught by Mrs. Paula Stevenson, who also teaches biology. Anatomy and Physiology is an excellent course for students who are considering a career in the medical field.

Chemistry is the study and investigation of the structure and properties of matter. Students learn to name compounds, draw structural formulas, and predict different reactions. Mrs. Meg Rawls is the chemistry teacher.

Computer Biology is simply tenth grade biology taught as much as possible by computers. Students perform lab exercises on the computers, do reviews, run educational games and learn simple programming. According to instructor Dana Fishburne, Carver may be the only school in the nation with a computer biology program.

Mathematics Program Thrives at CHS

Math courses taught this year included General Math, Consumer Math, Exploratory Algebra I and II, Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, Analysis, Computer Programming I and II.

Next year the following math courses will be added: Algebra III, Math V, and Computer Programming III and IV.

Computer Programming I and II use the BASIC language and Computer Programming III and IV uses the Pascal language.

An Algebra I team will compete in the Algebra I competition at Wake Forest University. Geometry and Algebra II teams will compete in the competition at A and T State University.

Computer classes took a field trip to AT & T and toured their facilities in February.

It has definitely been a major transition from the 9/10 school to the 9/12 school organization, but the Mathematics Department at Carver High is now stronger than ever.

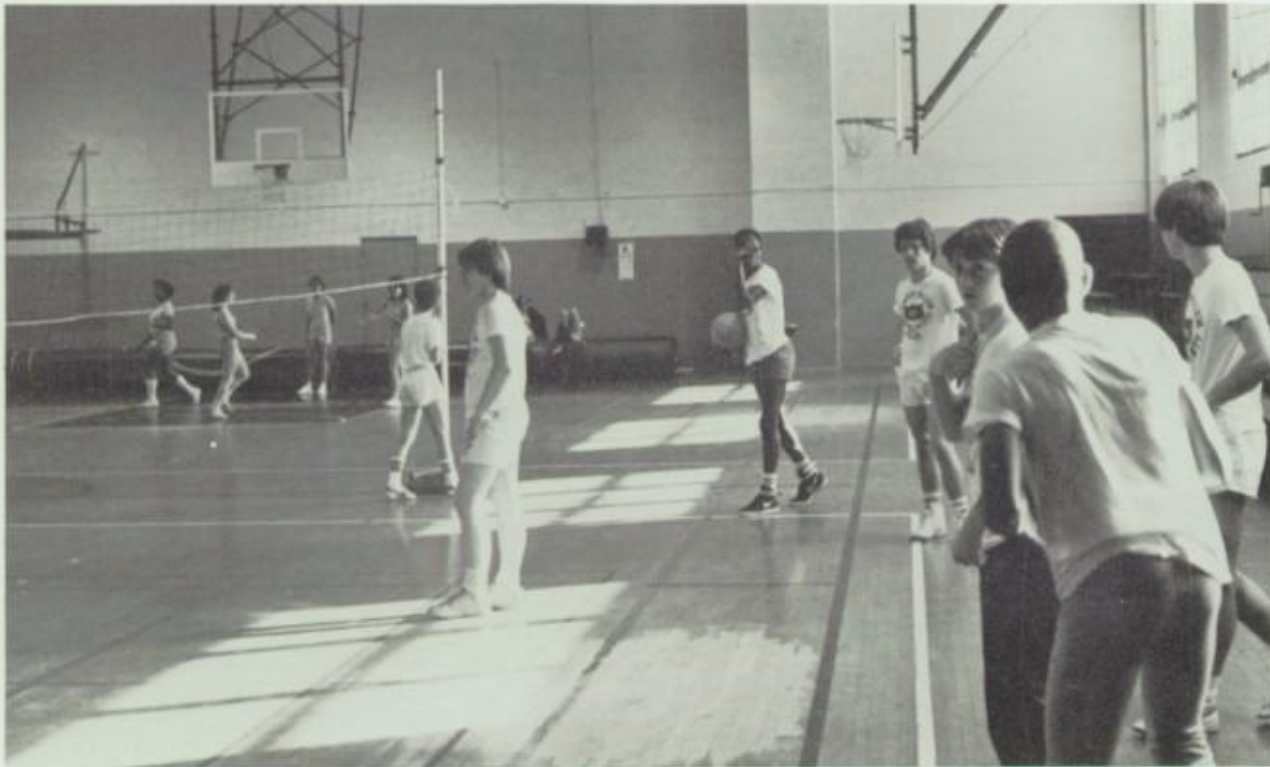

Social Studies

The social studies department at Carver offers several interesting classes: U.S. History, World History, U.S. and World Issues, and N.C./U.S. History, and European History. Students learn the structure of American and world politics, and current events. Students study the history as well as the present. The social studies teachers are Mr. Gibson, Mr. Lovell, Ms. Robinson, Mr. Telford, and Mrs. Transou.

Workout!

According to Coach Jim Bovender, the P.E. classes have been hard at work this year. Three of the major goals in physical education are conditioning and exercise, preparing for the N.C. Motor Fitness Battery Test, and learning the individual skills of team sports. Overall, our students appear to be in excellent shape.

In health classes students learn the functions and care of the body. They study cause and prevention of disease. For thirty days of the semester students are in drivers' education.

CHS Marches On

Students in R.O.T.C. are being prepared for careers in military service. The students are learning the history of the military, and are taught leadership. They have pride in their unit and in themselves.

They learn marksmanship, drilling, and riflery. They learn survival skills, repelling, and rafting. They visit several different military posts and bases. Above all, they learn self-discipline.

Business Ed

Many different interesting courses are taught in the business department, including Typing I and II, Shorthand I and II, Accounting, Recordkeeping, Office Occupations, Introduction to Business.

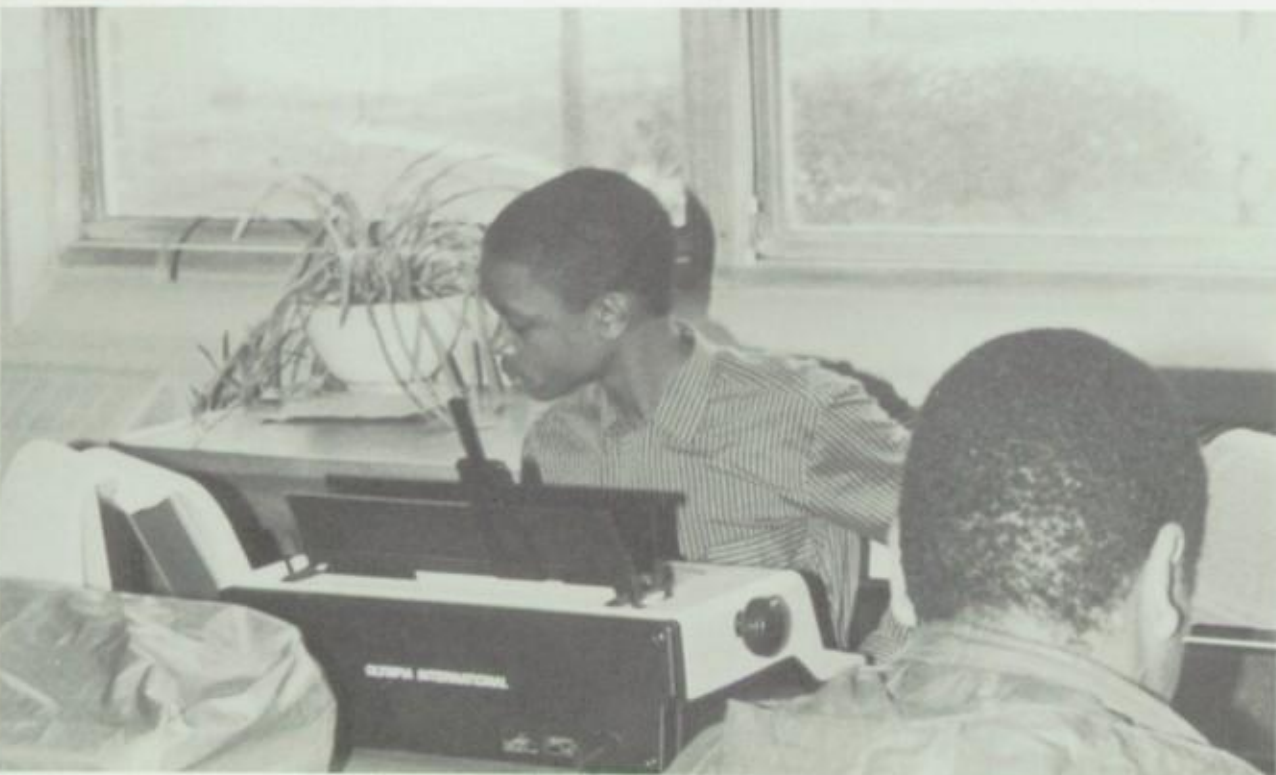

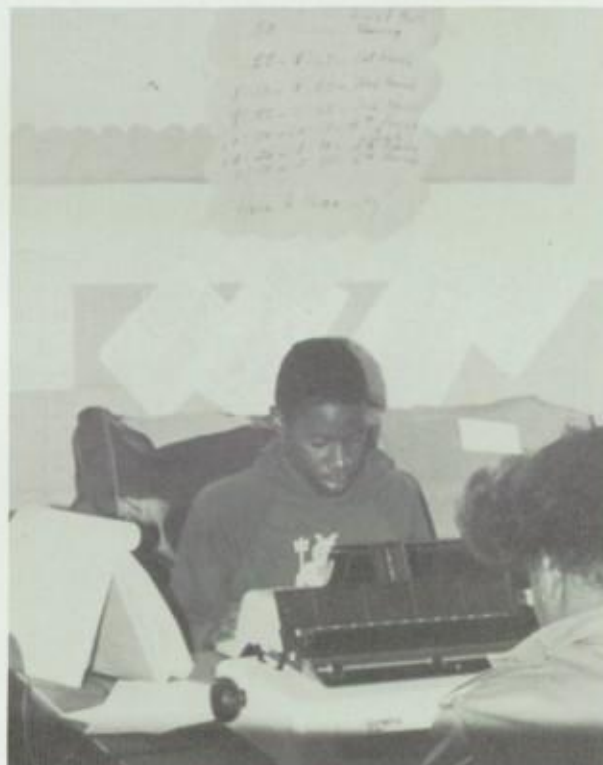

The business department is vocational and prepares students for employment upon graduation.

Our business instructors, Mrs. McNeal, Mrs. Triplett, and Mrs. Searcy recommend the Typing I class to everyone. They believe that all of us can benefit from such a course.

This is the first year for computers in the business department. They are teaching the use of the TRS 80, data entry, word processing, and simple programming.

A new work/study program is in the works for the business department. Next year they will offer Cooperative Office Occupations to train students to work in offices of all kinds.

Many jobs are available for students with the skills learned in our business department — both part time, summer and permanent employment. Students develop and polish such skills as attitude, appearance, attendance, and general office behavior.

Color Us CHS

Four years of art are taught in the Art Department at CHS. In the Art I area students study drawing, painting, sculpture, printmaking, commercial art and lettering, architecture, ceramics, and crafts.

In Art II they go on to advanced drawing, painting, sculpture, pottery, photography, printmaking, commercial art, and textile crafts.

Art III and IV is concerned with students who want to concentrate on specific areas of their choice in art.

In Art I students learn the basic fundamentals of art in order to advance to Art II where more freedom of projects exist. In advanced art students work more independently by taking their knowledge obtained in Art I and applying it to more detailed, varied projects. Art III has a totally independent curriculum which allows students to work in any area they choose for each quarter.

Art IV gives the student time for advanced creativity and development of their art work by choosing an area of concentration for an entire semester.

Our art department has won more awards and received more recognition for the quality of art work this year than in any previous year in Carver's history.

Under the direction of the art instructor, Mr. David Elliott, students are realizing their potential. When asked what improvements he would like to see take place in his department, Mr. Elliott replied, "The addition of a darkroom will help us achieve our aspirations." Without a doubt, Mr.

Elliott is turning out some very accomplished and well-prepared artists.

Selling Is Our Game

The Distributive Education program prepares students for careers in merchandising and distribution. Students are given a chance to get a job and experience the real world. Students learn retailing, sales, marketing, and distribution practices. They receive credit both for class activities and for the work they do on the job.

You Can Find It In The Library

The library is frequently the hub of activity at Carver. Its a great place to meet friends to study, research, and relax. When students don't have studying or term papers to be written, they may be found reading magazines and newspapers, from Sports Illustrated to the Wall Street Journal.

Boxes of books, magazines, files, and audio-visual equipment were stacked in corners for several weeks in anticipation of the big move to the west wing of the second floor.

The new library was scheduled to be completed by Christmas, however, the date came and went, and yet completion was still far away. It took tremendous effort and elbow grease, but the move was finally accomplished.

According to Mrs. Lanier and Mrs Aldrich, the move was a welcome success, and they are glad it is behind them. The new library wing is most attractive and spacious.

The Band That's In Demand

The Yellowjacket band is a symbol of pride to all of us in the hive. No pep rally or game would be complete without the resounding Carver Fight Song.

The director, Mr. R.V. Boone, is very dedicated to the band and to education. He has directed performances at the Dixie Classic Fair, Winston-Salem State University's Homecoming Parade, Livingston College's Homecoming Parade, and others.

The band performed at every football game last fall, presenting exciting halftime shows. The band also performed at some home basketball games.

Money for new uniforms was raised with the help of the Band Boosters club, of which Mrs. Gertrude Murchison, mother of Lowell Murchison, is the president.

The Honors Chorus is under the direction of Mrs. Frances Weaver. The officers include Adrienne Hodge, president; Dawn Clark, vice president; Lynn Powers, secretary/treasurer; and librarians, Jennie Ashby and Tonja Adams.

During the fall Adrienne Hodge was selected for North Carolina Honors Chorus as a first soprano. The N.C. Honors Chorus has 150 singers selected from a field of 600.

The Carver Honors Chorus performed several Christmas programs in the community including a Carver Christmas Assembly, Carver P.T.A., and the WXII Christmas Show on Christmas Day.

During the spring they performed at Carowinds Chorale Festival, Walkertown Middle School, Prince Ibrahim Elementary, Walkertown Elementary, and also had a Spring Concert.

Several chorus students will attend chorus camp at UNC-F in July.

The Heat Is On

In Homemaking, students are prepared for home and family living. They learn the fundamentals of cooking, meal planning, nutrition, sewing, child care, and safety in the home. They are taught all of the survival skills needed for everyday living.

The Homemaking instructor is Mrs. Lydia Wright, who has been teaching Homemaking at Carver for several years.

Super Shop

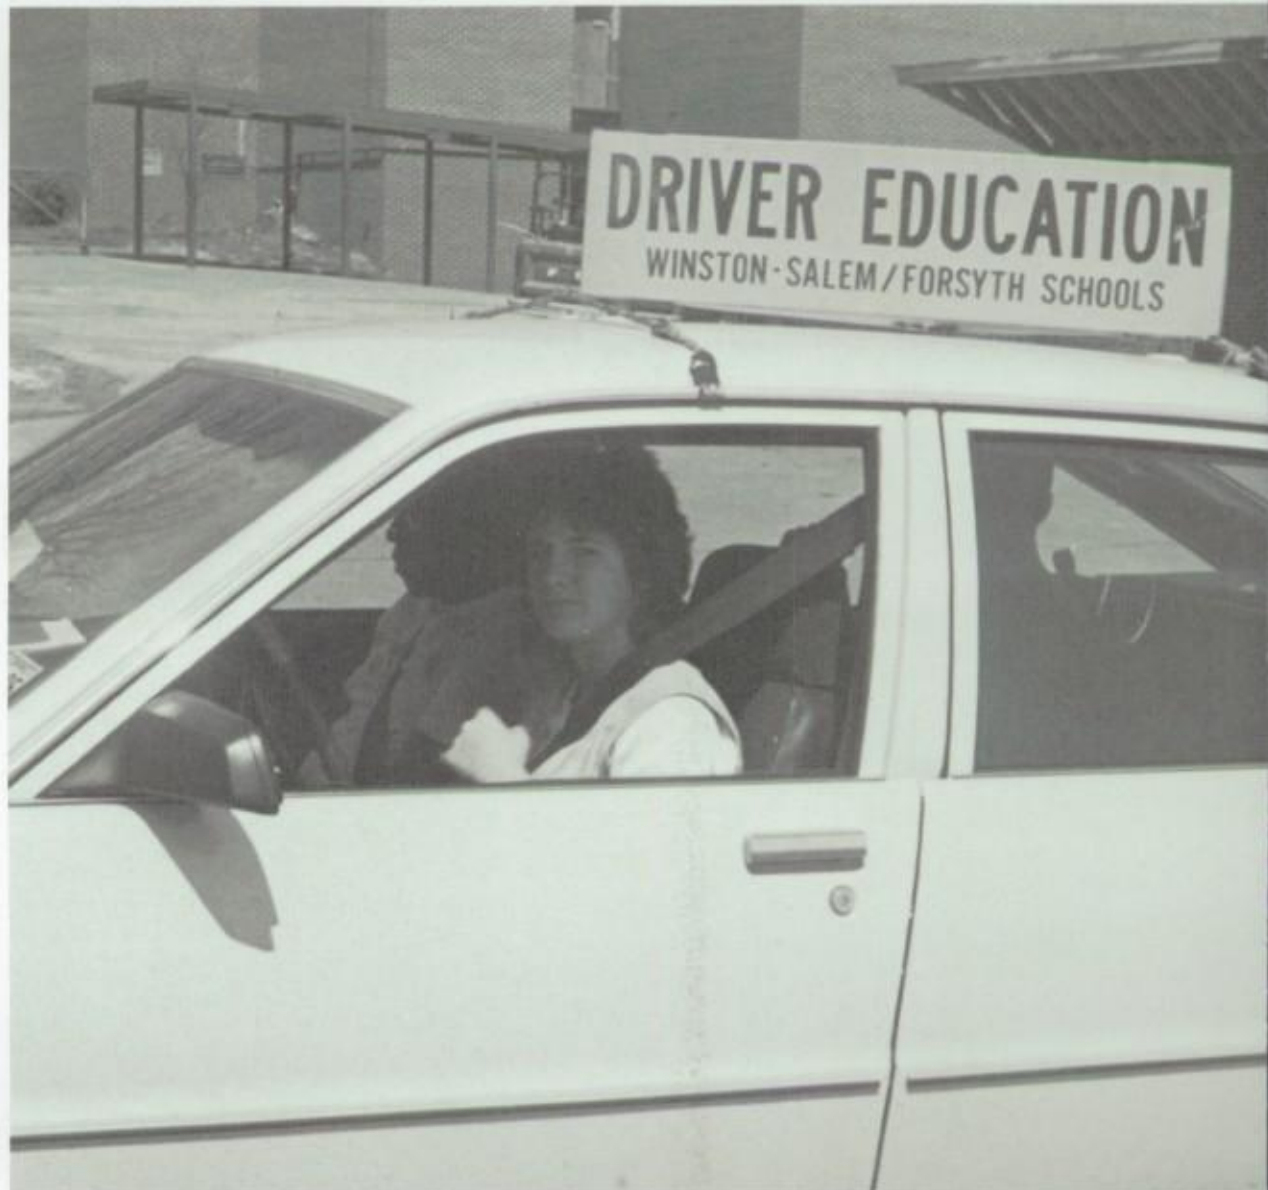

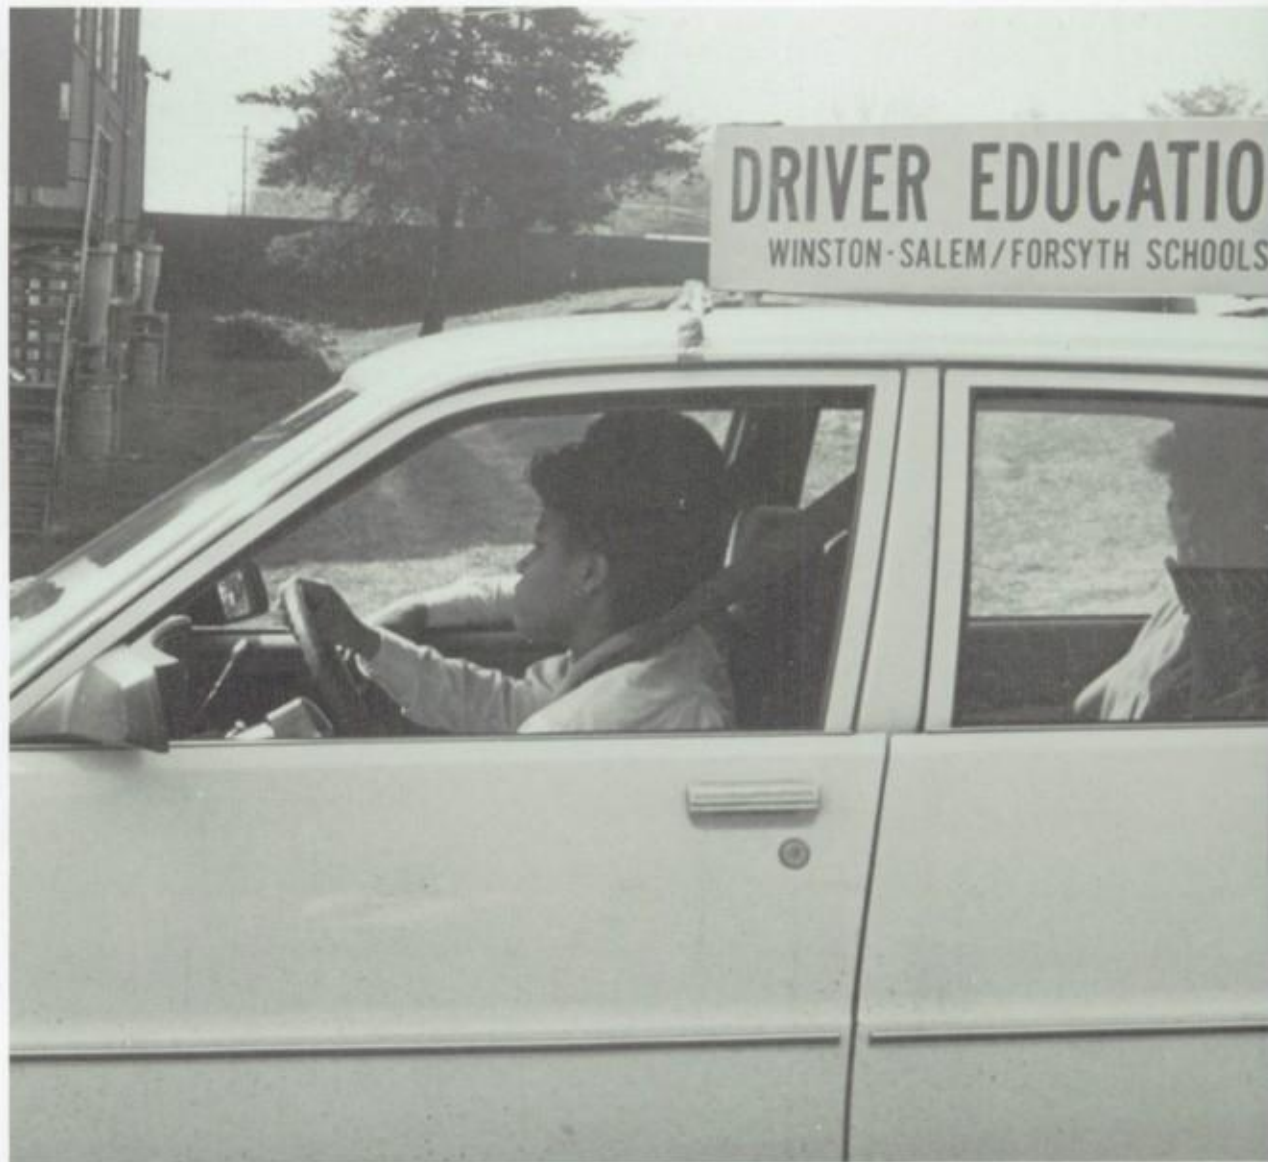

Several different kinds of courses are offered in Industrial Arts including Drafting I and II, Architecture, Woodworking I and II, General Shop, and Power Mechanics. New courses will be added next year. The instructors in Industrial Arts are Mr. Andy LaRowe, Mr. Mike Styers, and Ms. Ellen Warren.

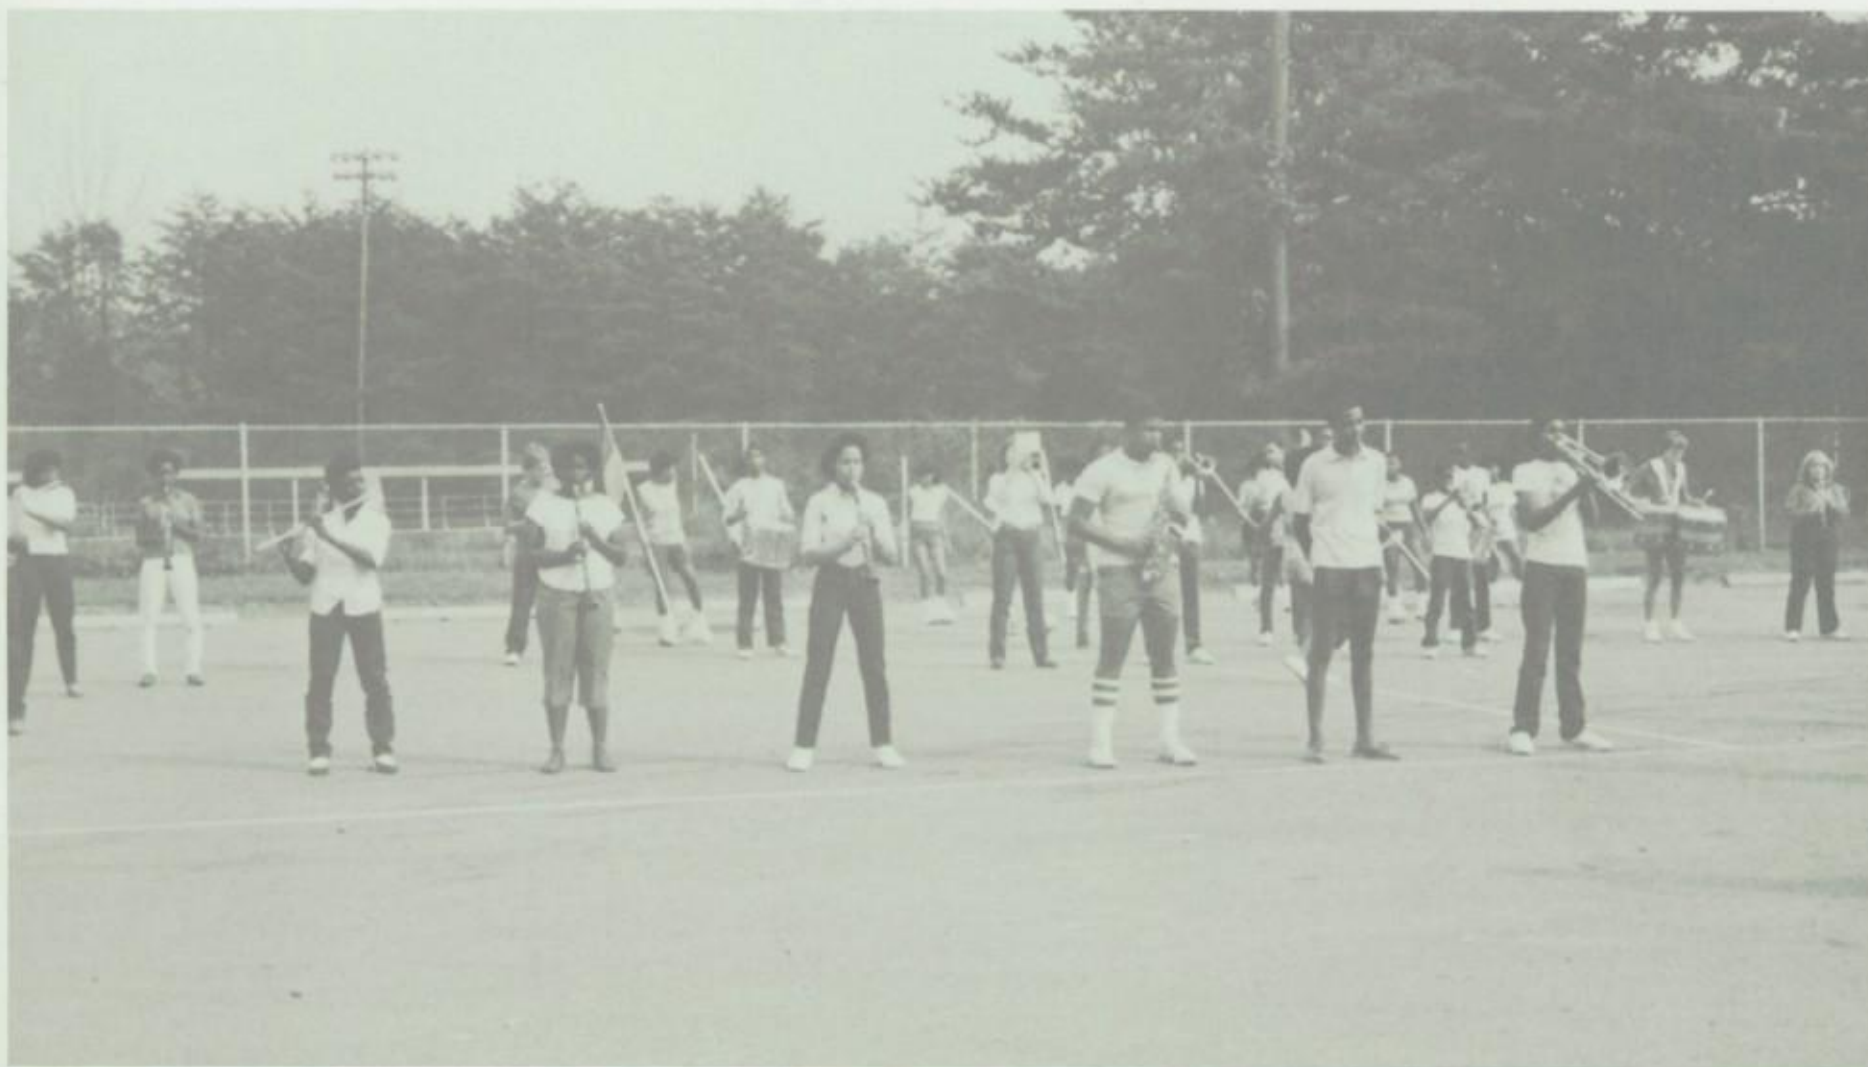

Driver's Ed.

Mr. Harding Cross and Miss Sandra Saunders are the Driver's instructors.

The duties of these instructors require that they daily put their lives in the hands of inexperienced drivers. This program consists of classroom work, range and in-th-car training.

Carver Courier

The busy bees of the Carver Courier worked hard all year to meet deadlines. The staff kept its eyes and ears open at all times for a hot story.

This year's Courier staff was made up entirely of freshmen. These newcomers put forth all of their effort to learn the techniques of the journalism world.

The co-editors, Jill Doss and Cheri Burnett, worked after hours many a day putting the paper together. Mr. Tise, the advisor, was always there to give guidance and lend a helping hand.

The Latin Club may have had a Sundae party on a Friday but no one was complaining. Latin Club members used their imaginations and talents to create their own sundaes. They started with ice cream and had a variety of toppings to choose from. Some even skipped the ice cream and went straight for the whipped cream and chocolate toppings.

The Latin Club Christmas party was held in Mrs. Buckner's room on Dec. 11th. All kinds of delicious snacks were served, from Danish wedding cookies to doughnuts. All members were there, and the Christmas spirit was in the air!

Several members of the Latin Club met for candlelight dinner one evening in March at Vincenzo's. The spaghetti, lasagne, and pizza were all delicious, according to sponsor, Jennie Buckner, who is reported to have tried them all!

The goal of the French Club is to study both the French language and the culture. In December the members baked French desserts to celebrate a French Christmas custom called "les treize desserts." In February the French Club sponsored a poster contest among French students for Foreign Language Week. Prizes were gift certificates from the Record Bar. They also celebrated Mardi Gras with "copains secret" and banners were made to promote the study of foreign languages.

The entire club gathered to view Mr. Tise's slides of France.

The French Club planned a "surprise" for the teachers during Foreign Language Week. They also plan to play soccer, that national sport of France, to show an award-winning French film, and to go on a French picnic at the end of the school year, according to Mrs. Mary Ellen Smythe.

The Spanish Club held their Christmas party on December 18th. Members brought donations (including flour, sugar, beans, vegetable oil, and rice) for local migrant workers. The party began with a pinata. After it was broken in the old gym, the members returned to Miss Olsen's room for the party and refreshments.

Teen Council

The Carver Teen Council is a community-oriented group consisting of about twenty-five teenagers from different schools around the area. The Council serves the Carver area by having parties to entertain younger children, and also by cleaning up and improving the community.

The club provides a supervised social life and seeks to raise the level of self-esteem of its members. The Carver Teen Council is under the direction of Mr. Jim Price.

The Apiary Was Born In '85

'85 was the year Carver became a senior high, and one of the changes involved a need for a new and larger hardbound yearbook. The yearbook staff chose the name Apiary, meaning beehive, which had been one of the many earlier names for the CHS yearbook. It was an almost overwhelming responsibility for a completely new and novice staff, and new and novice sponsors. Students and sponsors alike had to learn as they went. Although Murphy's law ("Everything that can go wrong will go wrong") was obeyed to the letter, the yearbook was finally published, and with high hopes the staff looks forward to a smoother year in '86.

Wendy Hanes and Sherry Williams match photographs with appropriate copy.

Rita Scales and Kashemi Rorie work on photograph ID's and captions.

There was no easy job on the Apiary staff. There was so much to be done and so little time, it seemed, to do it. Although there were many valuable people serving on the staff, there were a few who carried the weight of many. Under the expert leadership of editors-in-chief Shawn Alexander and Keeci Tobias, the following people were indispensable; Angela Bostic, Dannelle Fox, Amanda George, Wendy Hanes, Missy Ingram, Lisa Keller, Sandra Johnston, Tammy Mitchell, Kashemi Rorie, and Kim Robillard.

Stage Band

The Carver Stage Band consisted of many hard-working and dedicated musicians under the supervision and direction of Mr. R.V. Boone. These band members spent many hours after and during school to learn and practice their concert music. During the year they attended several school and special events around the Triad displaying the results of their long hours of practice and exhibiting their pride in Carver High.

He also said, "Thanks to all who have been supportive and encouraging."

Mr. Boone has contributed much to the school systems, we will miss him very much and wish him all the happiness in the future.

During the spring they performed at Carowinds Choral Festival, Walkertown Middle School, Prince Ibrahim Elementary, Walkertown Elementary, and also had a Spring Concert.

Several chorus students will attend chorus camp at UNC-F in July.

Members of the Honor Chorus wait off stage as they prepare to perform at a Christmas Show telecast by WXII, Channel 12.

DECA Club

The Distributive Education Club of America is an organization that works with businesses to help prepare students for employment upon graduation from high school.

Their sponsor is Mrs. Lark Casstevens. The president is Renea Hairston; vice presidents are Princess McClain, Lisa Teague, and Tina McKnight.

Each student receives two units of credit for the course. They receive a grade for their classroom work as well as their performance on the job.

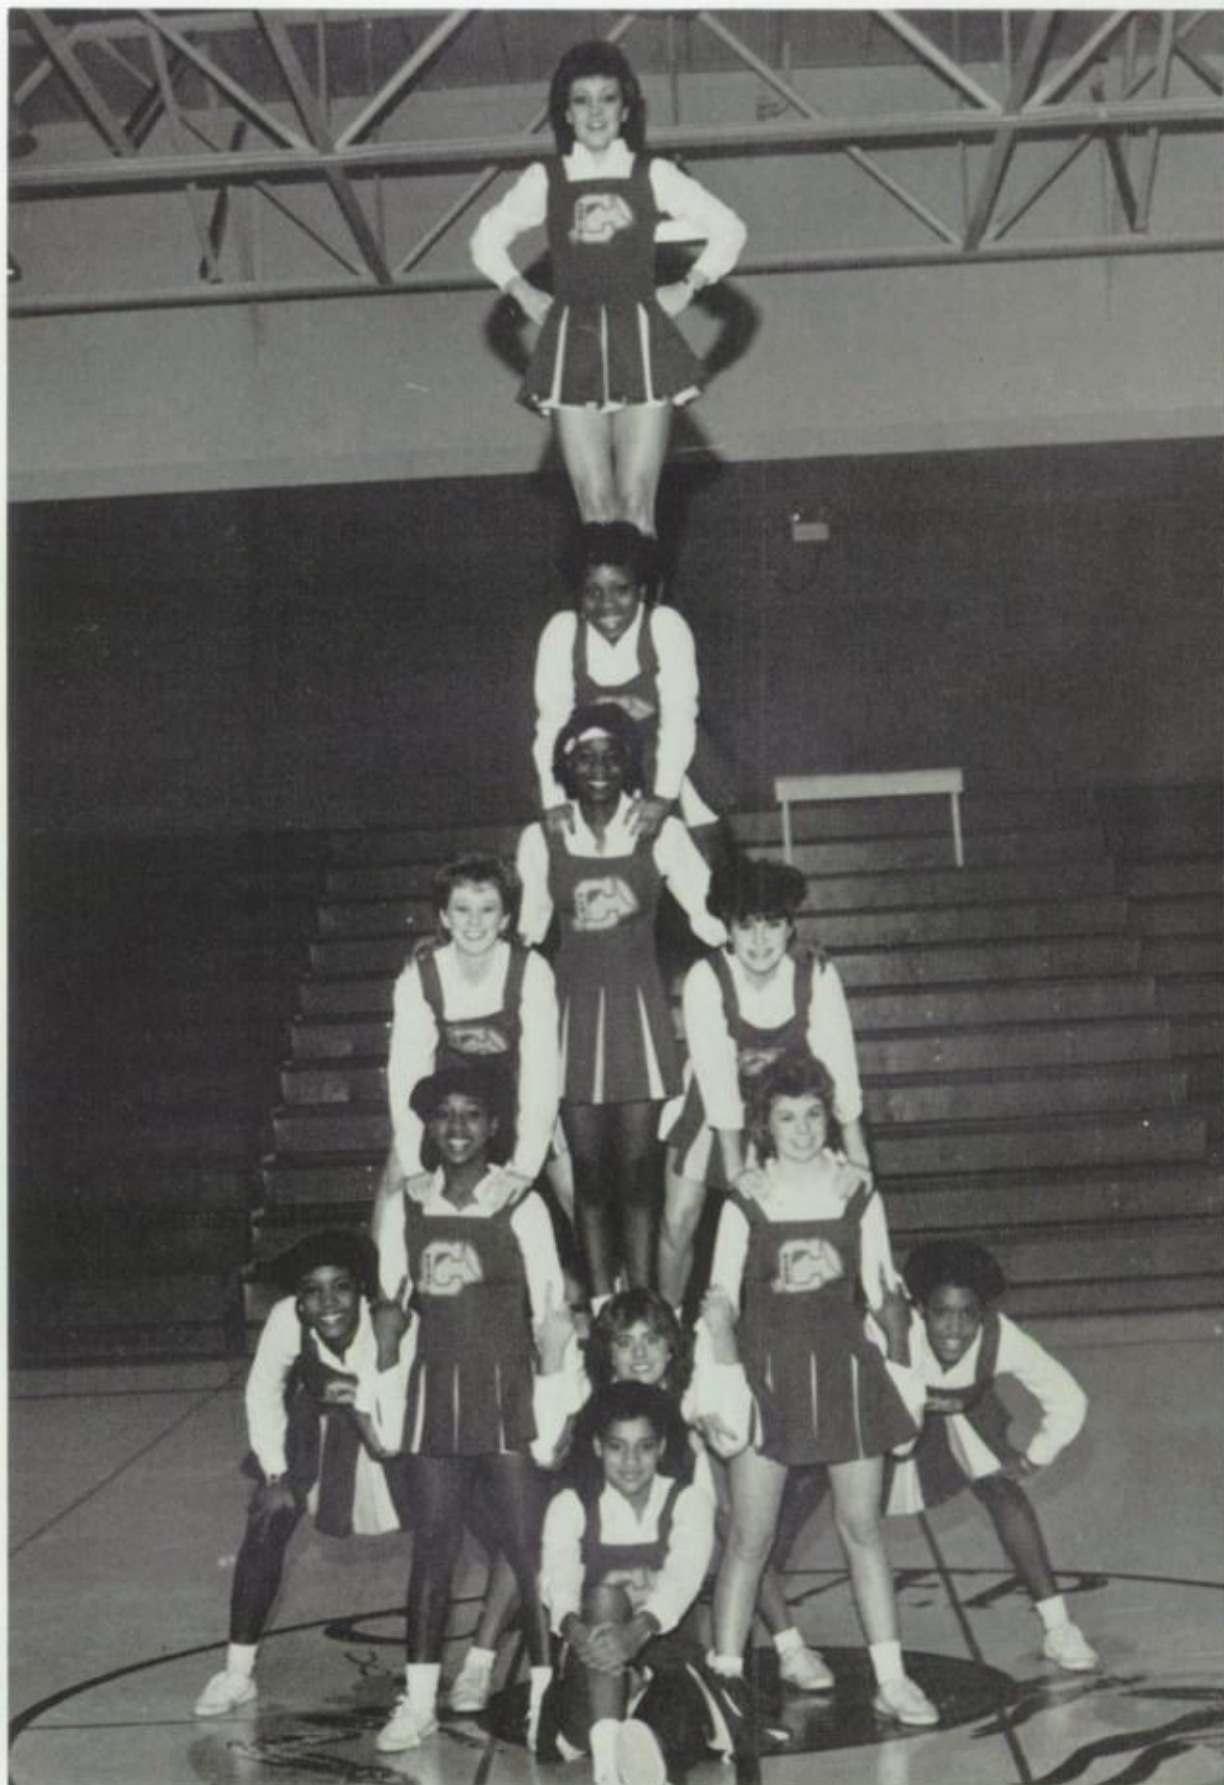

The DECA club also competes with other clubs. In March they went to Asheville for the State Leadership Conference. They are given a performance and written test, and also an oral event pertaining to their jobs.

FBLA Club

Future Business Leaders of America is a club of business students interested in finding what the business world is seeking, and thus prepare themselves for employment after high school graduation. They are under the direction of Mrs. V. McNeal.

Sweet Stingers

The Sweet Stingers, as every Yellowjacket knows, is a group of talented, vivacious young ladies chosen to represent Carver as entertainers at football and basketball games, and pep rallies.

They are under the direction of Miss Dana Fishburne and Mrs. Meg Rawls.

The girls are chosen in the spring through rigorous tryouts and they begin working together through February.

The girls learn the importance of teamwork as they all have to perform well to make the team look good.

The Sweet Stingers held fundraisers to pay for their uniforms. They are a most industrious group and they represent Carver well where ever they go to perform.

The girls must meet high standards in grades, conduct and school attendance. They are representative of Carver's best.

The Sweet Stingers were a pleasing attraction wherever they went to perform — at games, pep rallies, in parades and daily on the football field as they practiced long hours. They were a source of both pleasure and pride to Carver High.

Steppin' Out

The banner of Carver High precedes the marching band during the CHS halftime show.

The flag girls put in extra hours to perfect their performance.

Majorettes Jennifer Morris and Tangela Moses put in many practice hours.

The crowd is always receptive during halftime.

It's not as easy as it looks.

Leaders In Students Gov't

In November the student body elected its officers and representatives. Eric Hampton was chosen as president; Jasmin Daniels, vice president; Wanda Johnson, secretary; Keeci Tobias, assistant treasurer; Leslie Statton as second vice president; Rhonda Ballentine, treasurer, Cheri Burnett, 3rd vice president; and Tammy Lawon as assistant treasurer. These officers make up the executive staff. This staff also includes four other members: Mrs. Nicole Transou, advisor of the Student Council, Shawn Alexander, Tamala Jones, and Kim Marshall, who are all special representatives.

The Council has formed several committees. The spirit committee will be in charge of pep rally activities, school spirit week and decorations for holidays. The Constitution committee drew up the constitution. The Assembly committee was in charge of the organization and planning of assemblies. The beautification committee improves the physical appearance of the school, and the fund raising committee raised money for the different activities the council initiated.

Student Bus Drivers

Student Bus Drivers have the responsibility of transporting students back and forth to school. These drivers have to go through a series of tests and training in order to qualify for driving a bus. After the students pass the test they have to go to other classes to show them how to handle the discipline problems that may arise on the bus. These students have to have a great deal of patience and self control in order to be able to handle the problems that may confront them throughout the bus driving day. Although the students occasionally experience some problems they still enjoy having the opportunity to drive for other students.

Close Up is a group of students who wish to study more about our system of government. They travelled to Raleigh and to Washington D.C. to see our government in operation. In these two capitals the students participated in seminars and workshops which focused on political, economic and social issues.

Even with this demanding schedule, the students managed to have a lot of fun. They had the chance to go sight-seeing, attend the theater, and even tried out a few restaurants. They met a lot of new friends from many different places. It was a week of both education and enjoyment.

The Hive Is Alive — in '85, and after 35 years of existence has undergone a tremendous rejuvenation. This was the first year of a totally new way of life for the fighting Yellowjackets — the beginning of a new tradition. Pride in the hive was revived in '85.
